GLENDALE BIDS FAREWELL TO REV. FATHER O'NEILL

Popular Priest Receives Inspiring Tribute On Eve Of Departure to New Parish; Many Attend Banquet and Big Reception

By KATHERINE VIRGINIA SINKS
Member of Evening News Staff

JOURNEYING up El Camino Real to other fields of endeavor, just as Fra Junipero Serra and his loyal followers were wont to do in the early days, so Father James S. O'Neill, who has faithfully served the Glendale Holy Family Catholic church for sixteen years, turned his face northward early this morning on his way to Oxnard, where he will assume the duties of priest of the St. Claire parish.

The good father was smiling through his tears as he took leave of Glendale, for last night he was accorded the most inspiring denominational, interdenominational farewell honor at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse, that the city of Glendale has ever bestowed on minister or layman.

Parishioners, fellow ministers and friends numbered over 300 at the banquet, and this number was augmented to over 500 for the program and informal reception following.

Heartfelt Tribute

It was a most impressive sight to see the "boy" priest, now a man and gray with years and service, who came to Glendale when strawberry patches and orchards lined both sides of Brand boulevard, surrounded last night by friends who paid him heartfelt tribute both by word and applause.

Some said he had been "a devoted, self-sacrificing, courageous pastor"; some that he "had not limited his helpfulness to creed or belief"; but the most expressive tribute was voiced in the words, "a fine citizen and 100 per cent American."

The tables for the banquet were most artistically arranged by Tuesday Afternoon club women. They also prepared the menu, which brought them countless compliments. Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, chairman of ways and means of the Tuesday Afternoon club, was in charge of arrangements..

Floral Decorations

A flat floral arrangement decorated the long tables, Cecil Bruner rosebuds and fern being used on Father O'Neill's table, while pink carnations and fern were used on the other tables.

Seated on Father O'Neill's right was John Steven McGroarty, scribe of the Green Verdugo Hills, an old friend, who was asked to preside as master of ceremonies during the latter part of the evening.

On Father O'Neill's left was Mayor Spencer Robinson, and others seated at the table were Judge Thomas W. White of Los Angeles, James F. Degnan of the Holy Family parish, W. B. Kelly of the Holy Family parish, Jesse E. Smith, president of the Chamber of Commerce and also a member of the Holy Family parish; Dr. H. C. Funk, pastor of the First Lutheran church; A. T. Cowan, owner and publisher of The Glendale Evening News; Hugh Bryan of the Holy Family parish, and Joseph Coyne of Los Angeles, state deputy of the Knights of Columbus. Upon adjournment to the auditorium this group was joined by Rev. C. M. Calderwood, pastor of the Congregational church.

Vocal Numbers

Grace was asked by Father O'Neill, and during the banquet hour vocal numbers were given by Madame Teodora Wisniewska, coloratura soprano, accompanied by Mrs. Gertrude Champlain Erb; a saxophone solo and recitation by Adelaine Woodbury; music by A. M. Kelly, violinist, and members of his Shrine club orchestra; a violin solo, "Meditation," from "Thais" by Frank Louis, accompanied by Miss Dorothy Vogel.

The program was begun in the auditorium, but, through the courtesy of the Tuesday Afternoon club, a compliment was paid to Father O'Neill by Mrs. Daniel Campbell, president, when she invited the company to adjourn to the auditorium, where everyone could be seated.

"Glendale is a brave town and will let him go with a smile," was the introductory thought expressed by Mr. McGroarty in opening the program.

Tribute From Judge

Judge Thomas W. White of Los Angeles was the first speaker, and his presence and tribute were most fitting in view of the fact that he was a parishioner of Father O'Neill in the Sacred Heart parish in east Los Angeles over seventeen years ago. "We loved him, revered him and honored him as you do, but we had to let him go when he left us to come to Glendale. FatherO'Neill never limited his services to race, religion or belief, but served the brotherhood of man."

Following Judge White, Edwin Albright sang "The Bedouin Love Song," and Jesse Smith was the next speaker presented.

Mr. Smith briefly spoke in behalf of the Chamber of Commerce, and also as a parishioner.

"I have been associated with

Ready To Rush To Aid Steamer Reported Afire

LOS ANGELES, April 12.—Tugs were ready at the harbor to speed to the aid of the Japanese cargo steamer, Fuji Maru, on her way here from New York with a fire raging in her hold. She was reported to be about 350 miles south of Los Angeles harbor early today and rushing at full speed for this port.

Although a considerable portion of her cargo has been destroyed, the flames constitute no immediate menace to the ship or her crew of forty, it was indicated in radiograms received at the harbor.

The Fuji Maru is a 1413 ton vessel listed to the A. A. Masaki company. She was due here three days ago, according to officials of the Shell Oil company, who said she was to take on bunker oil here before proceeding to Yokohama and Kobe. She cleared New York about a month ago proceeding via the Panama canal.

BRINGS CAR OF HORSES TO CITY

Five-Gaited Saddle Horses From Kentucky Sought By Fanciers

Col. E. A. Pollard of Lexington, Ky., a member of the Kentucky Thoroughbred Horse Association and of the Kentucky State Racing Commission, has arrived in Glendale with a carload of twelve five-gaited saddle horses that are said to be the cream of equestrian aristocracy. Col. Pollard is an intimate friend of many years' standing of W. E. Evans, Glendale attorney, and it was largely through Mr. Evans' influence that the former was induced to bring his horses to Glendale.

Mr. Evans, on his visit to Kentucky last November, bought one of the state's finest saddle horses, and at that time he suggested to Col. Pollard that a splendid market existed here or could be easily developed, among the horse lovers of southern California, for a product such as is turned out in the Blue Grass state, and the result is that Col. Pollard has brought to Glendale a string of the finest saddle horses that could be procured.

These horses are now stabled at the Griffith Park riding academy on Los Feliz Road, and already the news of their arrival has brought horse fanciers from all over this region to compete for the ownership of the stock.

Another New Record In Continuous Dance

BULLETIN

CLEVELAND, April 12.—After establishing a world's record of 52 hours and 11 minutes continuous dancing, Miss Helene Mayer, Cleveland's champion marathon dancer, left the floor this afternoon, having exceeded the record set Monday by Miss Alma Cummings in New York by two hours and nine minutes.

CLEVELAND, April 12.—Miss Helen Mayer, department store clerk here today hung up a new record for continuous dancing, when at 11:38 a. m. she had eclipsed the record set Monday in New York by Miss Alma Cummings of Texas.

"Miss Cummings said she'd keep the pikers out, but I'm no piker," Miss Mayer said between steps, as she waltzed away with the idea of reaching the fifty-six hour mark or beyond.

Egypt's Curse Strikes Carnarvon's Aid, Said

CAIRO, April 12.—The illness of Howard Carter, who assisted Lord Carnarvon in the discovery and exploration of Tut-Ankh-Amen's tomb, is not considered serious, friends said today. He is suffering from general weakness brought on by overwork.

The superstitious are pointing to the breakdown of Carter's health as proof of their contention that Lord Carnarvon's strange death was due to an ancient curse imposed by the Pharoahs upon anyone who disturbed their graves.

DE VALERA'S CAPTURE IS EXPECTED

Grip on Ireland Is About Gone, Claim of Free State Officials

By DANIEL O'CONNELL
For International News Service

DUBLIN, April 12.—Eamonn de Valera's power in Ireland has been broken by the steady pressure of the Free State and the republican movement is fast collapsing, according to claims made today by Free State officials.

Six columns of Free State troops under command of General Prout, are moving through the Clonmel mountains, searching every nook and corner for the hiding places of De Valera, Dan Breen, the Countess Markiewicz, and their handful of followers.

While the report of De Valera's capture on Wednesday proved untrue, the general opinion is that he cannot remain at liberty much longer.

Iron Hand Policy

Free State officials declare that the iron hand policy would not be lessened until the leaders of the irregulars were rounded up.

Large numbers of irregulars are giving up their arms. Districts that have been the seat of guerilla warfare for many months, are becoming tranquil. There is steady decrease in train wrecking and bank robberies. The Free State is gaining the upper hand throughout the entire nation.

President William T. Cosgrave is now beginning to appear in public places instead of confining himself to the closely guarded government buildings. This is considered a sure sign that the situation is clearing up.

Trotzky to Dominate Communist Congress

MOSCOW, April 12.—Leon Trotzky's growing power in the soviets was made evident today by the intimation that he will virtually dominate the all-Russian communist congress which will open here on Sunday.

Trotzky himself announced the program for the congress. It urges increased support of agriculture and industry upon the basis of a proletarian state; that is, a state dominated by the masses.

Lenine, who formerly dominated the communist gatherings, will be absent on account of illness.

There were nineteen men and five women in the party. They left Fort Meyers over a week ago in nine automobiles and all trace of them had been lost. Aviators had made ineffectual attempts to find them.

BRITISH AID IN DRY WAR PROMISED

Two Nations May Confer on Best Method to Halt Liquor Invasion

By H. K. REYNOLDS
For International News Service

WASHINGTON, April 12.—The British government has promised to co-operate with the United States in efforts to break up liquor smuggling along the Atlantic coast, it was learned at the state department today.

Great Britain's intention to aid American prohibition officials in their losing fight aganst foreign rum-runners was conveyed to Secretary of State Hughes by Sir Auckland Geddes, the British ambassador here.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon does not favor the proposal of Prohibition Commissioner Haynes to borrow ships from the navy to fight rum runners, it was learned officially at the treasury department today.

Mellon does not believe there would be any advantage in transferring armed ships from the navy to the prohibition fleet.

May Ask Conference

LONDON, April 12.—The British government may soon invite the United States into a conference to consider means of checking the smuggling of liquor into the United States from British territory, especially from the West Indies, International News Service learned today from official sources. In the meantime the British government is conducting an independent and vigorous inquiry to determine the exact extent of rum running from the West Indies and the British Isles into dry United States.

Rebuttal Testimony Opens in Mann Case

SAN DIEGO, April 12.—The first of three rebuttal witnesses were placed on the stand by the prosecution when court convened today in the trial of Dr. Louis L. Jacobs, accused of having murdered Fritzie Mann, beautiful young dancer.

Arguments by opposing counsel was expected to get under way by noon today. Both defense and prosecution have indicated many hours will be required to sum up their cases and present them to the jury, so that the fate of the dashing young army physician may not reach the hands of the eleven men and one woman comprising the jury before Friday afternoon or evening.

Pistol in Baby Hands Causes Mother's Death

CALEXICO, Cal., April 12.—Mrs. Ada Dunagan of El Centro died today as a result of a bullet wound inflicted by her 3-year-old son.

Refuse To Heed Burglar's Threat, Badly Wounded

SAN PEDRO, Cal., April 12.—Braving the threats of a burglar who shouted that he would shoot anyone who dared to come near him, O. A. Elliott of South Seventh street, was shot and seriously wounded near his home here early today, according to a report to the police.

Nearly the entire jaw of the man was torn off when the burglar made good his threat, firing at Elliott at close range from behind a fence when the latter advanced toward him.

The shooting took place after Fred Combs had returned to his paint store adjoining Elliott's home and discovered his place had been robbed of $90 from the cash register.

DELAY WHEN P. E. CAR IS DERAILED

Commuters Are Forced to Wait as Traffic to L. A. Is Halted

Excitement prevailed along South Brand boulevard between 7:15 and 8:30 this morning when hundreds of commuters were prevented from getting into Los Angeles on their regular schedules.

The cause of the delay was the derailment of the Burbank limited just north of the Southern Pacific crossing. This was piloted by Motorman I. B. Shangle while Conductor G. L. Witham was in charge. The towerman on duty was M. J. Reed. Through a misunderstanding, the train got on to the derail switch and rolled to the ground. It was stopped immediately and there was no damage. A large part of the delay was due to the necessity of getting a powerful electric locomotive on the job.

Autos Collide

Two automobile collisions occurred within the past twenty-four hours at the same spot on North Verdugo road not far north of Monterey road.

The first one took place at 11:15 last night. Richard B. Reinert of Tujunga was going north on Verdugo road and Jim Perez of 4133 West Bimez street was going south. The automobile of Mr. Perez caught the left front wheel of Mr. Reinert's Ford turned it over and knocked out the wind shield glass, broke the left front wheel and broke the steering gear.

The second accident took place about 8:30 this morning. Clyde Lemmon of Burbank was driving north and Mrs. Dolly Dudlum of North Verdugo road was coming south. Fronts of both machines were damaged.

Youthful Slayer May Get Death Sentence

CALEXICO, Cal., April 11.—Lawrence Campbell, 22, today faced a sentence of hanging as a result of his conviction late yesterday by a jury which tried him for the murder of Leslie Nichols of Oakland.

The testimony showed the crime to have been one of the most fiendish murders ever committed in this state. Campbell, with Charles Davis, 19, who pleaded guilty, fired two shots at Nichols, both taking effect.

They then forced Nichols, the testimony showed, to walk to a spot behind some bushes, where the body would not be noticed by passersby. To make the dying man walk faster, the testimony declared, they pricked his body with cactus thorns.

Campbell and Davis had been given a ride across the desert by Nichols. After riding about 75 miles with him, the boys decided to steal the car, and murdered Nichols with that end in view, the state claimed.

America Will Protect Oil Concessionaires

WASHINGTON, April 12.—There is nothing monopolistic in the concessions secured from the Turkish nationalist government by the Chester syndicate in the opinion of this government, and the diplomatic assistance of the United States consequently will be available to protect the fruits of this American enterprise against the counter claims of British and French interests, it was stated officially here today.

Rebel Chiefs Rounded Up by Irish Troops

LONDON, April 12.—Countess Markiewicz, Count Plunkett, Miss MacSwiney and a brother of the late Liam Lynch, all influential Irish republican leaders, have been captured by Free State troops near the border of County Tipperary, according to a report from Clonmel this afternoon.

LONDON, April 12.—Premier Poincare's views on the present situation in the Ruhr and Rhineland and the possibility of a reparations settlement were communicated to Premier A. Bonar Law today by Count De Saint Aulaire, French ambassador, who has just arrived here from Paris. It was considered significant that the French premier should get in communication with the British so soon after the visit of Louis Loucheur, former French minister for liberated regions.

RUSS CROWN JEWEL IS SEIZED

Tiara Taken From L. A. Man By Special Agent of U. S. Treasury

LOS ANGELES, April 12.—Believed to be one of the Russian crown jewels stolen at the time of the assassination of Czar Nicholas, a magnificent tiara encrusted with diamonds, emeralds, pearls and rubies set in an enamel inlay and heavy gold, seized in Los Angeles by a special agent of the United States treasury department, was held today by Collector of Customs Schwaebe.

The tiara was coincidental with the scheduled arrival in Los Angeles of William Williams, special agent of the treasury department, from New York, whose mission to the city in connection with the government's search for the czar's gems was announced exclusively by International News Service last Tuesday.

Duty Not Paid

Special Agent Johnson, of the treasury department here, seized the tiara, which is owned by J. A. Jarmuth, wealthy oil operator, on the allegation that duty had not been paid when it was brought into the United States.

Mr. Jarmuth, it was stated, bought the costly jewel in good faith and is not suspected in the least of any attempt to smuggle it into the United States. In no way, it was emphasized, is Mr. Jarmuth implicated in any possible violation of the law in connection with the tiara.

Await Budget Before Telling Tax Policies

WASHINGTON, April 12.—In accordance with the wishes of President Harding, the administration will not formulate its policy of proposed tax reductions until early fall, when the government's budget will be more clearly defined, it was declared officially at the treasury department today.

Scientists Cease Tests To Prove Einstein Theory; Accuracy Assured, Is Claim

By ELLIS H. MARTIN
For International News Service

SAN FRANCISCO, April 12.—So completely have astronomical observations taken last September in Australia borne out the Einstein theory of relativity, that scientists connected with the Lick observatory of the University of California, who have made the test, will turn their attention to other astronomical problems, Dr. W. W. Campbell, director of the observatory announced today before leaving for Washington to address the National Academy of Sciences on his findings April 23.

"The results of our observers are so satisfactory that the Lick observatory does not plan to repeat the Einstein test at the total solar eclipse due to occur in extreme southwestern California and in Mexico, September 10, 1923," Dr. Campbell declared.

The astronomical tests of Einstein's theory, on which its author himself admitted it must stand successfully or be revised, were three in number. The one just made involved the photographing of stars surrounding the sun at the time of total eclipse—the only occasion on which this could be done. Einstein declared the image of the star on the photographic plate, whose ray, in traveling from the star to the plate, just grazed the edge of the sun would be displaced outwardly with reference to the center of the sun's image on the plate through a distance of one and three-quarter seconds of the arc, that the star's light ray would be bent from a straight line by this amount while passing through the sun's gravitational field.

To make the tests two sets of plates were made. One in the skies of Tahiti in the South seas, the other at Wallal, Australia, at the time of the eclipse. Dr. Campbell and Dr. Trumpler have completed independent measurements and subjected them to rigorous mathematical treatment. The average of five sets of values was one and seventy-four hundredths seconds of arc—"as close as the most ardent proponent of the theory could hope for," according to Dr. Campbell.

Accuracy Proven

WASHINGTON, April 12.—Experiments conducted by the United States bureau of standards have proven the accuracy of the Einstein theory of relativity and gravitation, according to an announcement this afternoon.

Dr. Paul R. Heyl, who made the test, said the theory was proven by the development of an instrument so sensitive that differences in weight of one billionth part of a small diamond or top could be detected.

H. P. Fletcher May Succeed Geo. Harvey As Ambassador To England, Is Reported

LONDON, April 12.—Belief prevails in British diplomatic circles that H. P. Fletcher, American ambassador to Belgium, will succeed George Harvey as American ambassador to England, the Evening Standard stated today. This report was ridiculed at the United States embassy. Harvey will shortly return to America on furlough.

Denial was made at the American embassy that Harvey's American visit has any political significance. An attache said the ambassador's January visit was cut short by the Anglo-American debt negotiations and now he wants to return to attend to private business affairs. He will sail shortly after the Duke of York's marriage on April 26.

May Not Return

WASHINGTON, April 12.—While administration officials were uncommunicative today concerning the future plans of American Ambassador George Harvey, it became known there is a strong probability that Colonel Harvey will not return to his post in London, following his return to the United States early in May.

Officials And Pupils Place Cornerstone For New High School Plant

THE cornerstone was laid yesterday afternoon for the new plant of Glendale Union high school. Dr. E. C. Moore, director of the Southern Branch of the University of California, wielded the silver trowel with ebony handle. This was officially presented to Architect John C. Austin of Pasadena by Allan Pollock, president of the senior class.

Mark Keppel, county superintendent of schools, made the speech of the occasion. He commented on the excellence of the site and remarked that it would not be long until Glendale's growth would make necessary the erection of another high school.

"I want to congratulate you upon having the kind of a mayor you have in Glendale," he exclaimed. "He is the kind of a man a town can well afford to be proud of. I want to congratulate you also upon the splendid manhood and womanhood in this community."

Denial that modern educational administration is extravagant was made by Mr. Keppel. He stated that he was more concerned with the increase in consumption of cigarettes from 6,000,000 to 50,000,000 "coffin nails" annually in this country than in any expenditures for education. He asserted that sixty similar high school plants could be financed for the cost of one modern battleship.

California Stone

The only way to prevent Glendale from growing and needing additional schools, according to Mark Keppel, would be to lock the gates of the town and prevent any more easterners from settling here.

"When Glendale doesn't want the easterner," he laughed, "the sun will be rising in the west and the railroads will be paying their taxes without protest."

The cornerstone is a block of California granite weighing about three tons. It was dropped into place by a block and tackle manipulated by S. C. Mettry and his brother, George Mettry, operators of the North Pacific Construction company.

A large copper receptacle, which was fitted into the cornerstone, was filled with appropriate records. Class rolls from each of the classes since 1904 were dropped into it by a representative from each class.

First Valley Visit

George U. Moyse, principal of the high school, said the first time he had come into the San Fernando valley to a school function was in 1902, when he had come into the San Fernando valley was in 1902, when he had come with Mark Keppel to witness the laying of the cornerstone for the former high school on the southeast corner of Brand

Daily HEALTH-AGAIN TALKS
By Dr. Otey

No phase of modern life requires so keen and individual analysis as does the subject of health. In nearly every line of business a mistake can be rectified before there is a total loss, but a loss of time from sickness or poor health is a dead loss. There is no salvage.

It must be written in red ink and charged up against your TIME allowance. Osteopathy adds years to your life and life to your years.

It is a well established axiom that for advertising to be permanently successful it must be reciprocal, that is, it must be of as much benefit to the public as to the advertiser. Osteopathic advertising can easily make good on this score.

It has been estimated that success in life is nine-tenths good health. Out of 10,000 men and women considered successful, over 9,000 were physically vigorous. Success comes from intelligently directed physical and mental intensity.

The prizes of life go to those healthy men and women virile in mind and body, the Osteopathically perfect kind.

It is not the plague, small pox and yellow fever, not war and accidents from automobiles and train wrecks that deplete the human ranks so much as the loss from lowered vitality and physical inefficiency. Largely preventable.

You are invited to read these daily health-talks, and remember that we answer questions. Mail yours to the address below.

boulevard and Broadway. He added that it was only six years later until the cornerstone had been laid for the present plant in 1908. He hesitated to venture an opinion as to the future.

A succinct comparison between school days of the past and the present was made by Mayor Spencer Robinson. He said that, when he had attended the "deestrict skule" the cornerstone laying and general construction of the log cabin schoolhouse had all been accomplished the same day.

"The early training of the young men and young women of today," he remarked, "makes the men and women of the future."

Richardson D. White, superintendent of the grammar school system, was called upon for an impromptu speech, and asserted:

"Someone has said that education is the chief function of government. Without good schools this republic cannot endure. I feel that we people of Glendale and of the other sections of the high school district are to be congratulated today."

Most Inspiring Sight

"I don't know of any more inspiring sight than a lot of boys and girls engaged in the business of making men and women out of themselves," exclaimed E. F. Sanders, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

C. R. Norton, chaplain of the G. A. R., declared that "evidences are unmistakable that we do move."

"Boys and girls are the pride of every American heart," he said. "We rejoice in the knowledge that America is going forward to a destiny all glorious."

Dr. H. V. Brown, past president of the high school board of trustees, extended a welcome to those present.

Brief speeches were made by Mrs. E. B. Moore, president of the Federated P.-T. A., and Mrs. W. G. Widdows, president of the High School P.-T. A. C. A. Langworthy, superintendent of schools at Redondo; Charles Barbour, superintendent of schools in Alhambra and Ben S. Millikan, superintendent of schools at Covina, all extended greetings.

The invocation was pronounced by Rev. C. A. Cole, pastor of the Central Christian church. Several songs were sung by a combined glee club led by Mrs. Florence Parker. An opening march was played by the high school band led by Hubert E. White. Its members wore new white jerseys relieved with cloth lyres of red, a gift from the High School P.-T. A. A squad of boy scouts led the salute to the flag and Mrs. Dora L. Gibson led the singing of "America."

Photographs of the several hundred people present were taken by Glenn R. Dolberg.

The result of the discussion, which will follow a dinner, will be to provide every committee with a definite objective for which it will work during its term of office, with a clear understanding of its duties and functions in every eventuality that may arise.

TUJUNGA

WIN WEALTH ON MIDGET RANCHES

Truck Farmers of Tujunga Reap Rich Harvests in Many Lines

The "garden truck" farmers are all rejoicing over the recent rains, which were badly needed. There are many small farms in the valley, from which are obtained comfortable and even affluent incomes. Grapes are grown on a large scale for one thing and every kind of fruit and vegetable is produced, some extensively and some merely for family use. A soil that in some cases appears too rocky to newcomers, produces in abundance, and with a minimum of cultivation, almost anything man desires for his table.

Tujunga is also one of the communities where the poultry business is carried on scientifically and on an intensive scale. Besides supplying the local stores with eggs, a large proportion of the supply of nearby towns and cities, including Los Angeles, comes from Tujunga and Sunland chicken ranches. There are dealers on a large scale who obtain their entire supply of eggs from this valley.

Many rabbits are also raised, both for home use and the market. Los Angeles dealers find this a fine source of supply and make regular trips to Tujunga for fryers.

Ten years ago this garden spot was overgrown with brush and strewn with boulders and stones. Today many of the enterprising are making comfortable livings from "ranches" as small as one acre. Ambition and hustle are miracle workers and when pulling together they constitute the ingredients of what the shiftless are wont to refer to as "luck."

Ten Years Old

Ten years ago the first townsite lots were sold to a few enterprising souls who saw here an opportunity to materialize their dreams of a little home and economic independence. These dreams have come true and many of the original colonists have for years achieved a comfortable living from an acre of land.

Nearly everyone in Tujunga is in some way identified with the life of the big outdoors. The nature of this identification ranges from the two or three acre class, which requires the entire time of the owner, to the ten foot square garden patch and a few hens and a goat or two.

What can really be done is exemplified by the achievement of Mr. and Mrs. Ensign Woodruff, who have enjoyed a good income from their acre ever since they bought it nearly ten years ago in 1914. The Woodruff place is on West El Centro and is one of the most interesting as well as attractive homes in the valley. Like many others, the Woodruffs find the egg market very lucrative and maintain a large flock of fine birds. The green feed is grown on the place.

An idea of the productivity of this soil may be gained by a summary of the products of this acre ranch. There are many varieties of trees, including avocado, lemon, orange, grapefruit, plumquat, loquat, walnut, almond, fig, quince, nectarine, apricot, peach, pear, plum, apple and several olive trees.

Freak Plum Tree

The soil is unusually well adapted to growing raspberries and blackberries. Mr. Woodruff has become quite a skilled horticulturist in developing his place to full efficiency and has a plum tree that bears six varieties of the fruit. The budding and grafting was all done by Mr. Woodruff. He has also had some success in growing sweet potatoes and peanuts. Asparagus, a rare product in Tujunga valley, is also grown on the place, as are also many grapes, including two seedless varieties.

Miss Maude McConnell, of 308 North Goletta, was the guest of her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Good, of Summit avenue Sunday afternoon at a cinema party. The picture chosen was "Robin Hood" and they motored to Hollywood, where it was being shown at Grauman's magnificent cinema palace. Later in the afternoon the party enjoyed a drive through Highland Park, Los Angeles and returned by way of Devil's Gate bridge.

The older generation still judges a man by his clothes and a woman by her lack of them.

Frank Booth Expresses Views About Airport

Editor The Evening News—Now that the airport question has been decided against by the Ballot of Tuesday's election, there is no reason that the Airport dream cannot come true. Why not the original owners of the acreage carry on the project with the industries named and the Airport hangars for private owners, as given out on March 28 and receive the rentals named, viz., $5395.00 per year. All they will have to do is to get permission from Los Angeles or the county authorities for permission to conduct any suitable industries, not objectionable. I heard one wealthy resident of Glendale, state at the formulation of the Airport campaign committee, that he would gladly give $100,000 for the ground if the city of Glendale did not want it. That is not a bad offer for the original owners, about $35,000 more than the present price of $2,000 per acre, and if sub-divided as the tract is nearby the Airport ground, by a local Real Estate Firm at $20.00 per front foot or $1,000 per lot, figuring five lots to the acre which gives $5,000 per acre. This will give a very handsome profit to the investor.

Yours truly,
FRANK BOOTH,
111 So. Kenwood St.,
Glendale, Cal.

MONTROSE

BUILD NEW HOME FOR CAR AGENCY

Ford-Lincoln Distributors to Establish Branch Salesroom

Construction work is now actively in progress in Sparr Heights upon the new Ford-Lincoln agency. This will be located on the northwest corner of Montrose and Lynford avenues about half a mile south of the center of Montrose. It will be operated by J. P. Anderson and Wallace Tupper, who are now operators of this agency in Tujunga.

The new building, which will be of brick, will have a frontage of 125 feet on Montrose boulevard and a depth of 110 feet on Lynford avenue. Contractor Elmer Elliott of 612 East Elk avenue already has ordered 22,000 feet of rough lumber for it from the William J. Bettingen Lumber Company.

Unloading Facilities

The Johnston-Anawalt Lumber Company of Montrose recently completed arrangements by which lumber cars of the Glendale & Montrose railway will be unloaded on the south side of their property instead of only Montrose boulevard.

"We own all this property here," remarked H. F. Anawalt recently, "and we want it improved as fast as can be."

The Montrose Chamber of Commerce recently suggested this change and it was readily agreed to by the Johnson-Anawalt Lumber Company.

The Glendale & Montrose Railway Company has completed the lowering of its switch into this lumber yard and soon all will be in readiness for the paving of Montrose boulevard on the west side of its right-of-way. When this has been done, the Johnson-Anawalt Lumber Company contemplates further improvements in front of its property.

"There is certainly a great deal of building activity in this vicinity," asserted Mr. Anawalt. "I think it will increase right along, too, especially in Sparr Heights. It takes people six or eight months after they buy property to figure out the kind of a house they want and all its details. Many of those who bought property here last fall are just beginning to get their building plans ready."

Inspect School Site

The new school site in Sparr Heights was inspected recently by Richardson D. White, superintendent of schools, who found himself well pleased with it.

This property, which consists of four and a quarter acres, has a frontage of approximately 532 feet on Escuela street and Community street and approximately 260 feet on Highland avenue and Buena Vista avenue. It is situated not far from the Community Center.

According to M. Walters of the Barnum-Walters Company, the price of $12,500 which was charged the school board is only one-third of the present value of this property. He regards the transaction, however, as a legitimate and satisfactory method of helping to develop the Sparr valley.

Fred B. Turner of Montrose has returned from an extended trip east during which he visited Jersey City, New Jersey, Pittsburg, Chicago, and Detroit. He reports that business was active at all these points.

M. H. Roach's new home in Montrose has now been under construction about a week. It will cost approximately $5000. The Roach family now live in Tujunga.

J. E. Eggleston's new $7000 home has been finished in Sparr Heights.

Tickets in Demand For Orpheus Concert

The few remaining tickets for the Orpheus concert Saturday night in the Tuesday Afternoon club house, are selling very rapidly, according to an announcement this morning by A. L. Ferguson, president of the Glendale Kiwanis club.

Because of the reputation and excellence of the Orpheus club, which is regarded as one of the foremost choral organizations in the United States, most of the tickets for this affair have been taken by local Kiwanians and their friends already.

M. B. Towman, secretary of the local branch of the Automobile Club of Southern California, who has charge of the ticket sale, stated this morning that a few tickets were left. He expects the house to be sold out before the concert.

Tickets are on sale at the headquarters of the Automobile Club, 248 South Brand boulevard, at Roberts & Echols' Drug Store, 102 East Broadway, and at Charles F. Stuart's Glendale Pharmacy at 638 East Broadway. Mr. Stuart and Frank Echols are both Kiwanians.

Work to Start Soon On New S. P. Depot

The Southern Pacific Company expects to start work in the near future upon its new station in Glendale. F. H. Williams, assistant general manager of the Southeran Pacific, is the writer of the following communication to City Manager W. H. Reeves:

"The delayed plans and specifications are being completed, and we expect to file application for a building permit very shortly now.

"As to the location of the depot: This will be about opposite Central avenue, and will be closer to Los Feliz than Brand boulevard. The depot could not be very well located any closer to Brand boulevard, owing to the interlocking limits at the crossing."

Veterans' Bureau to Abolish Branch Depts.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—The United States veterans' bureau will abolish all its branch supply depots and establish three central depots as an economy measure, Director Hines announced today. The new depots will be located at Chicago, Perryville, Md., and in a city on the Pacific coast yet to be selected. Among the depots to be abandoned are those at Long Island City, New York, and Chilicothe, Ohio.

ATHLETIC PLANS FORMED AT MEET

Community Service Draws Up Program of Events To Be Staged

The athletic committee of Glendale Community Service, at its meeting last night in the boys' gymnasium of the high school, worked out a part of the forthcoming athletic program to be conducted by this organization.

The committee was very enthusiastic over the formation of an indoor baseball league to play during the twilight hour on the high school grounds. The first game will be next Wednesday, April 18, between the First Methodist team and the Night School nine. Other teams are in the process of formation, and games will be played Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday as soon as eight teams are organized and put into the schedule. These teams are to be made up of young men not attending school. The regulation indoor soft ball will be used. Plans are already under way for installing lights on the athletic field, which will make it possible to play after dark.

Athletics during National Play Week, which comes April 22 to 28, was discussed, and the high school athletic department, under the direction of Mr. Hayhurst, is to put on a wrestling and boxing tournament on the evening of Wednesday, April 25. During the afternoon, the Legion baseball team will play the Harrower Laboratory team on the high school grounds. This will be followed by special stunts put on by the Boy Scouts.

High school students will also participate in special swimming feats at the exercises celebrating the opening of the Patterson avenue pool, on April 28, the last day of Play Week.

Among those present at last night's meeting of the athletic committee of Glendale Community Service were Normal Hayhurst, Rex C. Kelley, Nelson Dick, Frederick Butts, A. G. Wheelon, Albert T. Blanford and R. Ernest Tucker.

BURBANK

BURBANK PUPILS WILL GIVE PLAY

High School Class Presents 'The Charm School' in Auditorium

Burbank's big event tonight is the high school seniors' presentation of that clever and popular play, "The Charm School," which will be given in the high school auditorium, at 8 o'clock.

The class has made every effort to put the play across as one of the finest amateur performances ever seen in this city, and they are counting confidently on their many friends to support their effort by being present.

They want the auditorium packed—so "Turn out!" is the summons from the seniors, "It will be worth your while!"

Will Stage Fights

A boxing match is to be staged tomorrow night, April 13, at 8:30 o'clock, at the "Twin Pines" pavilion, Mohte Vista park. The main event is to be a bout between Canadian Carter, of Sunland, and Kid Calhoun, of San Francisco.

Carter is the big favorite but the old adage, "the Kid is clever", should be borne in mind, dopesters warn. Calhoun, a dark horse may have some kind of a trick carburetor none of the local boys are wise to.

The semi-wind-up is a tussle between Bob Keily, "the fighting Irisher," and Walt Dodge, "the fastest growing 135-pounder in Glendale." Both boys have memories of previous engagements together, and know how each other's fists feel, so the mix-up ought to be interesting.

On Tuesday and Wednesday, April 17 and 18, Burbank's "Man of Mystery", Mr. Emerson, will perform at the Victory Theater, the stunts he put on for the Kiwanians recently. He then takes his act out on the road, feeling that as it has pleased so many of his friends, it ought to make a good showing over the circuit.

On April 18 there will be a benefit dance given at the Palais Majestic, announces Manager L. G. Evans, the proceeds to go to the policemen for their fund. The regular orchestra will provide the music and there will be special entertainment features.

"Who's Who" Films

The Gullette-Campbell laboratories are now engaged in making the prints for a "Who's Who" series of films being photographed of Los Angelenos. As this laboratory is understood to be capable of turning out work of quality, the folks in the big city will have no trouble in recognizing themselves, when they look at the product of the Gullette-Campbell plant. Mrs. Gullette is expected to arrive in Burbank soon and both members of the firm expect to become permanent residents.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Maag, who formerly resided in Burbank, where Mr. Maag was an employe of the Southern Pacific road, have moved onto their chicken ranch at Van Nuys and are raising 6000 baby chicks.

Mr. Maag started in the chicken business in Burbank in a small way, and gained a great deal of valuable experience before entering upon his present large scale of operations.

Rotarians Gather

The night of Monday, April 9, was a red-letter occasion in the history of the newly-organized Burbank Rotary club, as it was on this night that they received their charter, at a banquet held at the Sunset Canyon Country club.

In the resultant program of events, Burbank and Glendale mingled harmoniously, speakers and artists from both cities contributing to a very pleasant evening.

As the Glendale Rotary club has sponsored the Burbank delegation from the beginning, they were guests of honor, and a number of them were present with their Rotary Anns, among them Mr. and Mrs. Roy L. Kent, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Eastman, Mr. and Mrs. Valentine Hollister, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Phillips, Captain and Mrs. Thomas Watson and their daughter, Dorothy, George Karr and his sister, and Edward Hewitt.

The program opened with the singing of "America," led by Francis J. W. Henry of Glendale, and was followed by an invocation, led by Rev. E. A. Main, of Burbank. Mrs. H. J. Valentine sang a solo, "Madrienne," accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Walter Fisher.

After the banquet President J. C. Crawford of the club, who is the mayor of Burbank, gave an address of welcome, after which the charter was presented by John Williams, of Long Beach, district governor of International Rotary. Dr. J. N. Van Meter, vice-president of the Burbank bank, accepted the charter.

Rev. E. E. Ford, of Glendale, gave a very interesting talk on Rotary. Talks were also given by Harry Mason, vice-president of the Los Angeles club; Charles Henderson, president of the Long Beach club; Elliott Wyman, of Los Angeles, Charles Cooper, who sponsored the Burbank club; Tom Davis, of Butte, Montana, formerly district governor, and others.

President Crawford extended greetings to the Kiwanis club, whose president, H. W. Lewis, responded with best wishes for that organization. Roy L. Kent, president of the Glendale Rotary club, gave a talk.

Two Scotch songs, by Francis J. W. Henry, were the hit of the evening.

EAGLE ROCK

Occidental College Gets $500,000 Endowment Fund; Dr. John W. Baer Resigns

COMPLETION of the $500,000 endowment fund for Occidental college announced at a recent meeting of the board of trustees of the organization, means that Eagle Rock's finest educational institution is to still farther widen its field of service.

Co-incident with this announcement, the trustees made known their plans for raising a second endowment, with $2,000,000 as the goal set.

One-third of the half-million-dollar fund now complete was the gift of the general education board, and their confidence in the institution is expected to greatly aid the trustees in gathering additional substantial support for Occidental college.

This is one more proof, say educators, that it is no longer necessary for students to go outside Southern California for a thoroughly grounded higher education.

Dr. Baer Resigns

The only regret of the board of trustees is that the announcement of this piece of good fortune must carry with it the supplemental announcement of the resignation of John Willis Baer from their midst. Dr. Baer had been with the college since 1916, serving as president and later as board member, and has been for many years one of the leaders in the steady and gratifying progress made by this institution.

The vacancy on the board occasioned by Dr. Baer's resignation has been filled by the election of Herbert G. Wylie, president of the Mexican Petroleum Company, and a benefactor of the college.

It is hoped by members of the board that one of the new buildings made possible by the $500,000 endowment will bear the name of John Willis Baer, as a tribute to his long and faithful service.

P.-T. A. Matters

A very interesting meeting of the Federated Parent-Teachers' association of Eagle Rock was held yesterday afternoon in the auditorium of the Central Avenue school, with Mrs. Archibald as speaker.

Mrs. Archibald is chairman of the parents' reading committee of the first district.

Abandoning its plan for a May festival, the Central Avenue Parent-Teacher's association has decided to put on a drive for funds to operate the school cafeteria, $500 being set as the goal.

Mrs. F. H. Lerchen, chairman of the cafeteria fund committee, states that the reason for giving up the festival plans is that upon investigation it was found they would yield a very small financial return. And, inasmuch as after consolidation there will be but two pay entertainments a year allowed, it was felt that as good a start as possible should be made prior to this time.

Aided by the mothers of school students, Mrs. Larchen and her committee plan a strenuous campaign for funds, in amounts from twenty-five cents up. Substantial help is looked for from influential citizens, as the school cafeteria is something vital to the best interests of the school children.

At the same time a drive is to be conducted by the students of the Central Avenue school for funds to get out their year book, and the collection and selling of old newspapers, magazines and other paper will be the method used. As it will take a lot of paper to accomplish the desired end, it is hoped that the people of the city will help the students in their task.

A good feature of this drive, it is pointed out, is that it will serve to clear out a lot of inflammable material from store rooms, back offices and other places.

Community Players

Last night, at the Central school, the Eagle Rock Community Players held a rehearsal of the Booth Tarkington play, "Clarence," which they will present at the schoolhouse later in the month.

This was the first stage rehearsal the players have had since the recent bill of one-act plays, and the first work on this particular play since last month. Mrs. Elgie Lowry Fischer, director, feels, however, that the present cast have the play very well in hand, and things are now shaping up for the final sessions, where will come the polishing that distinguishes Mrs. Fischer's work and marks it with the stamp of professionalism.

Coming Events

An interesting meeting of the Chamber of Commerce will be held at the city hall tonight, April 12, at 8 o'clock, announces Secretary Crawford.

Judge Cruzan will hold his popular "Speed Court" at the city hall at 9:30 o'clock Saturday morning, when a number of motorists who were stung by the costly bug that makes people crave swift transportation will listen to the "bad news."

The following Tuesday, April 17, at noon, the quarterly banquet of the Retired Ministers' association will be held in the Methodist church annex, with covers laid for 100.

The general public is invited and those desiring to make reservations should get in touch with Mrs. J. A. Morrow, 120 North Satsuma.

In answer to the call of the American Legion auxiliary for "pretty girls" for the candy sale at the Mystic Circle, April 27 and 28, a number of candidates appeared at the Public Library Monday afternoon and a number were chosen by Miss Lillian Lerchen, who will direct the dancing. The girls will wear crepe paper costumes and are expected to present a lovely appearance.

From now on all dogs within the limits of Eagle Rock city must wear their little brass identification tags, else they will find themselves "pinched." Should this latter sad fate befall any canine chum of an Eagle Rock boy or girl, it will then be necessary to come and put up "bail" to get little doggie out—and should bail not be forthcoming, doggums will be the victim of capital punishment.

So, lest go dire a fate befall "man's best friend," see that little doggums has the necessary identification tag, is the advice given by city officials.

Eagle Rock Personals

Miss Langdon, for some time in charge of music work at the Central school, has resigned, on account of her health, and will take a long rest before assuming any further duties.

Several other teachers of the city schools are ill, as a result of the severe colds and influenza that have been going the rounds this spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Huston of Salem, Mo., are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Hendricks of 235 North Douglas avenue.

Mrs. H. J. Culbertson and family, of 122 North Douglas avenue, are moving to Los Angeles next week.

EXCHANGE MEETS ON FRIDAY NIGHT

Organization to Hold Its First Gathering in New Quarters April 13

The recently organized Builders' Exchange of Glendale has established quarters at 113 North Maryland avenue, and the members will hold their first meeting in that location tomorrow night, April 13, at 8 o'clock, announces Henry Molz, secretary-manager of the exchange.

In commenting on the organization moving into its own quarters, Secretary Molz states that this is the first step toward establishing a close business friendship between manufacturer, dealer, contractor and citizen.

"This is the only trade organized and maintaining business quarters in Glendale," says Mr. Menz. "It stands for that great unorganized group, the property owners of the city, and advocates through its various committees the enactment and enforcement of laws for the protection of all citizens in matters effecting building operations.

Information Bureau

"The Exchange quarters are to be fitted up for the convenience of the public as well as members, and a bureau of information will freely advise on all building problems. The roster of the organization will be open to the public and membership is limited to those who stand for integrity, efficiency and loyalty, three cardinal factors insuring good work at a fair price.

"Realizing that 'In unity there is strength,' the Builders' Exchange of Glendale hopes to have a large membership of local individuals engaged in such allied crafts of the building trade as to make them eligible, and calls particular attention to the meeting tomorrow night, which it is hoped will be well attended."

Jeter Will Discuss Ku Klux Klan Origin

Evangelist Jerry Jeter spoke last night at his East Broadway and Cedar tabernacle on the text from Rom. 3:22, 23—"For there is no difference, for all have sinned and come short of the glory of God."

Evangelist Jeter reports that the crowds are growing and that his tabernacle is becoming known far and wide. He promises to speak next Sunday night on —"What has become of the religion of our Pilgrim fathers?"

The evangelist says that in this sermon he will discuss the conditions that have brought about the Klu Klux Klan and other organizations of similar nature.

Episcopalians Plan To Enlarge Church

Plans for a campaign to raise $12,000 to remodel and enlarge the St. Mark's Episcopal church to twice its present capacity were made last night at the parish meeting in the Guild hall.

Rev. Philip K. Kemp presided over the meeting, which followed a supper given by the Guild and vestry.

C. D. White was appointed chairman of the building campaign committee, and he will be assisted by a corps of captains.

The new church will seat about 300 people.

CONTEST AROUND BUDGET CLAIMS

Some Say Figures There and Some Say Not; And There You Are

By GIL A. COWAN
Special to The Evening News

SACRAMENTO, April 12.—Rough sledding is ahead for Governor Richardson's budget recommendations in the senate finance committee, it would appear from the hectic session last night, which wound up with an argument over the elusive $919,000 in secondary school funds.

Senator Jones, at the request of Will C. Wood, introduced amendments to the budget figures giving $39,110 more to employes on the state board of education, $100,000 more for free text books and $8000 more to the state superintendent of public instruction and deputies.

Mrs. Pierce said the $919,000 is in the budget, while Wood claims it isn't. Senator A. Burlingame Johnson of Pasadena wanted $20,000 for the forestry department and other demands are proposed by Senator Inman and others, which, if adopted, will force the governor's hand. Senator Rominger stood solid with him in the committee.

Assemblyman Roy Fellom's bill against hanging was tabled after a public hearing by the assembly judiciary committee, which passed out favorably realty license law changes.

Despite the prominence of the female volunteers in the ranks of the militant "fascisti" of Italy, nearly all women of that country are home bodies.

ASK OPINION ON WORK OF ARTISTS

Pictures Shown in Windows Of Brand Blvd. Stores To Be Voted Upon

Another election is on in Glendale!

This time it is not for councilmen, nor is it pro or con of any municipal measure—but to establish by ballot who is the most popular local artist.

Fifteen paintings, miniatures and sculptures have been placed in store windows on Brand boulevard, between Harvard and Wilson. These exhibits represent the work of Glendale artists, and have been placed by the Glendale Art association, whose desire it is to have the people of this city express their judgment thereon.

Mrs. Roy A. Ballagh, president of the association, explains that the voting will take place at Jensen's Drug Store, 133 North Brand boulevard, where Lallot boxes, ballots and pencils have been installed. Each picture, miniature and sculpture is numbered, in addition to bearing the artist's name, and there are no strings whatever tied to the voting.

Simply go to the ballot box, write the name and number of your favorite artist on a slip of paper and drop it in. The "election" is on all this week.

The first thing to do however, Mrs. Ballagh advises, is to make a careful study of the works exhibited, which include things by H. C. Swartz, John W. Cotton, Peter Krashow, Francis Sayre and Miss Viola Sayre, Mrs. Hounsell, Miss Herrick, Mr. Cheever and Mr. Mambert.

The Defensive Armor of the Home

IN THE DAYS when chivalry flourished, the home, whether castle or hut, relied upon steel to protect it from its enemies. The home of today depends upon metal for its protection, but from different enemies. The foes of the modern home—heat, cold, wind, rain smiting it from without, and that human enemy within, called "wear and tear"—are all held at bay by a metal film called PAINT.

This liquid metal that protects your home within and without, is but $\frac{1}{300}$ of an inch thick—the thickness of a sheet of writing paper. In BASS-HUETER Pure Mixed Paint the film is made of the best materials obtainable—pure lead and pure zinc, ground in refined linseed oil. When you have applied this Twentieth Century Armor to your home, you have coated the surface with a metal film that resists the attacks of the elements and withstands hard usage.

BASS-HUETER
Paints and Varnishes

have been successfully defending Pacific Coast homes for more than sixty years. Made on the Coast to withstand climatic conditions peculiar to the West, BASS-HUETER products give the utmost satisfaction to home owners, industrial plants and manufacturers; to all users. Upon each can of BASS-HUETER Paint you will find full instructions for its use; though inexperienced, you may use these paints without fear of failure. Modernize the old home or keep a new one in the pink of condition by doing the small jobs yourself with these dependable paints and varnishes. The contracting painter you engage for the larger work will be glad to use BASS-HUETER products if you request it.

Write for our folder "The Way to Beautiful Homes," illustrated in color, and our booklet "Paint Facts," giving practial suggestions for color schemes, and the use of paint in your home. Both are free of charge.

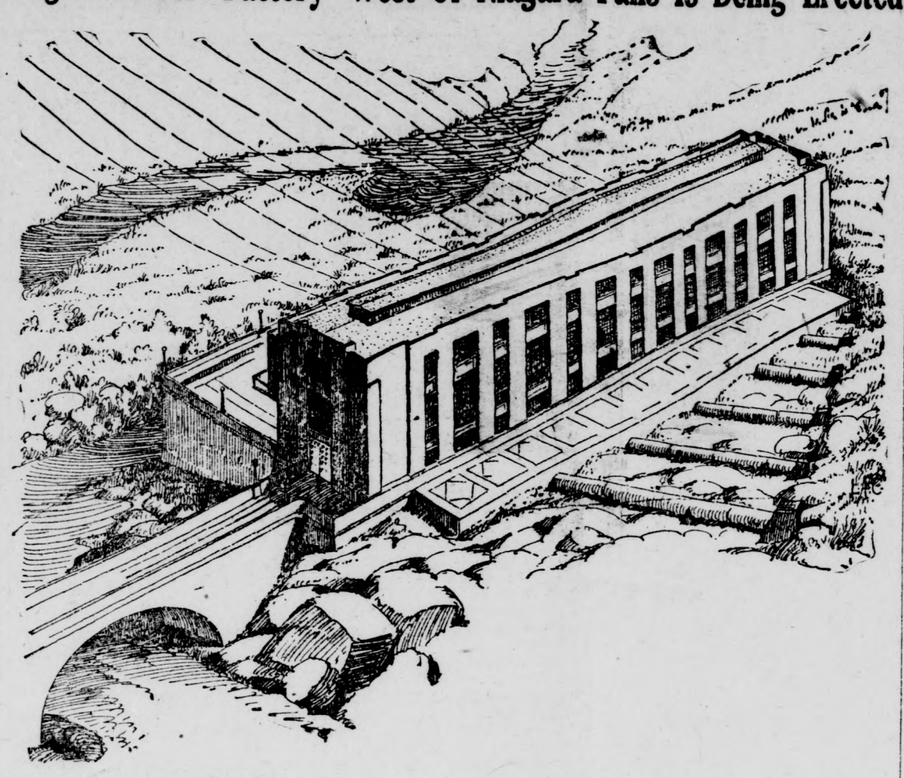
CONSTRUCTION OF ELECTRIC PLANT UNDER WAY

Largest Power 'Factory' West Of Niagara Falls Is Being Erected



"BUILDING of the largest water power electric generating power house west of Niagara Falls was commenced this morning by the Southern California Edison Company," said District Manager H. B. Fletcher today. He has just received a message from R. H. Ballard, vice president and general manager, notifying him that 100,000 horsepower would be shortly available from this great construction program, insuring an ample supply of electric power for all purposes for Glendale and vicinity and throughout entire territory served by the company.

"This power house," said District Manager H. B. Fletcher will be the fourth of the chain of Edison Company power houses on its Big Creek—San Joaquin River project and is the first to be constructed on the main channel of the San Joaquin River far down the canyon and will receive its water supply by diverting the river through a tunnel nearly six miles long and twenty-one feet in diameter, now nearing completion, which is a part of the eighty-six miles of tunnel system contemplated in this development project. The first 33,000 horsepower generating unit will come into operation about August 1st, and will be followed by the second unit about September 1st and it is expected that the entire plant with 100,000 horsepower capacity will be completed and the power placed on the lines by October 1st.

Highest Voltage

"This power will be transmitted for distribution over the first commercially operated transmission line operating at 220,000 volts, the highest voltage ever used for transmission in the world, and over a line of 240 miles, terminating near Los Angeles, establishing a new world's record in the long distance transmission of electric energy.

"The capacity of this plant will be equal to about one-half the maximum demand for light, power and steam generating capacity of the entire Edison system which now supplies the principal electric demands in the counties of Los Angeles, Fresno, Kings, Tulare, Kern, Santa Barbara, Ventura, Orange, San Bernardino and Riverside, with a total population of over a million and a half.

Ample Supply

"Glendale, Los Angeles and over 250 other cities, towns and intervening rural communities will receive an ample supply of electric energy from this titanic source of power to meet all their demands for house and street lighting, agricultural development and for factories for some time to come.

"The power which will be derived from this new electric giant of the West will be sufficient to bring under cultivation 130,000 acres of semi-arid agricultural land and to propel 600 factories, which, according to accepted statistics, will give employment to 40,000 workers.

"With the completion of the great Florence Lake tunnel, over thirteen miles in length, the longest tunnel in the west, the great watersheds which lie between the Kaiser Range and the Minaret Range in the High Sierras, having an area about the size of the Hawaiian Islands, will be tapped and their water flow from the melting snows will reach the generators of this new plant at a fall from Mt. Hilgard, the highest summit, a drop of over eleven thousand feet or more than two miles of perpendicular drop. After they have passed through the turbines of this plant, they will return undiminished into the San Joaquin River in an even flow to irrigate the lands of the valley beneath, flood damage and waste of water being completely eliminated.

Work Starts Today

"The building of the superstructure, which was commenced today, is the final step in two years of preliminary work, which required cutting a road from the face of the precipice above the San Joaquin River, which was one of the most daring pieces of construction work of the period; the boring of six miles of tunnel, the construction of a new dam across the San Joaquin River and the hauling of 82,000 tons of material for building the foundations and base for the powerhouse, which will be of structural steel and concrete and along the most improved lines of modern construction. This powerhouse will be built in record time, the actual construction work not to consume over 141 days. Mr. George C. Ward, vice president in charge of construction, this morning stood on the brink of the canyon overlooking the new powerhouse, where the pressure mains drop the water at a head of 855 feet on the turbines, and watched the first girder of the super-structure swung into place by the great electric crane. In the telephone message to me today, Mr. Ballard said he had just received a wire from Mr. Ward, which read: 'We will bring in the biggest powerhouse in the West in about one-half the time that any other powerhouse was ever constructed.'"

MANY ATTEND AT CHURCH SERVICE

Pre-Communion Meetings At Presbyterian Church Increase Members

Large attendance is reported from the pre-communion services being held every night this week at the Glendale Presbyterian church.

Rev. W. E. Edmonds, pastor, had charge of the service last night, continuing the study of the books of the Bible with the prophecy of Isaiah as his theme.

The service tonight is being designated as "Sunday School Night" with H. L. Finlay, superintendent of the Sunday school in charge. Officers and teachers of the school are to meet for supper at 6:30 o'clock and during the supper hour will informally discuss their work.

Devotional Hour

There will be a brief devotional hour at 7:30 o'clock, and Mrs. Frances Neth will give an address on Sunday school work. Mrs. Neth was in Glendale with the John Brown evangelistic party and her many friends are anticipating hearing her.

On Friday night Dr. Frederic W. Farr, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church, Los Angeles, will speak on the subject, "The Timeliness of Divine Interventions."

Following the service the session will meet to receive new members.

In view of the increased membership an office has been opened at the church, with Miss Louise M. Guenther, secretary, in charge from 9 to 12 o'clock each morning and 2 to 5 o'clock each afternoon. The telephone number of the church is Glendale 3189.

Fight Jap Plans to Nullify Land Laws

SACRAMENTO, April 12.—Attorney-General Webb has left for Washington, D. C. to appear before the United States supreme court in behalf of the state in a series of test cases brought by the Japanese in an effort to nullify the anti-alien land law.

Two of the cases before the supreme court, which are on appeal from decision of the state supreme courts of California, Oregon and Washington, question the right of the state to prohibit Japanese from entering into so-called cropping contracts. Other points involved are the right of an ineligible alien to own stock in a corporation which has the privilege of holding real property and the right of land owners to convey property to such ineligible aliens.

Attorney-General Webb will strenuously oppose the letting of cropping contracts, offering evidence to prove that such procedure is merely a subterfuge permitting evasion of the land leasing feature of the alien land act.

Occult Science Club Meets Each Thursday

SQUARE DEAL TO SOUTH DEMANDED

Redistricting of State Is Urged in Resolution of Association

By GIL A. COWAN
Special to The Evening News

SACRAMENTO, April 12.—More power to the campaign for reapportionment comes from a resolution passed by the California Development association in session at San Francisco. It adopted a resolution calling upon the legislature to redistrict the state in accordance with the constitution, which will give Southern California its proportionate share of representation.

Edwin Baker, whose bill on reapportionment is before the assembly, is convalescing rapidly from pneumonia and consideration may be given the subject during this week. Baker's friends are conducting his campaign for the Los Angeles city council by picture postcards.

Considerable fun is being poked at the "tuna trust" which wined and dined members of both houses who voted against the Inman anti-alien fishing bill, according to reports current about the capital. Perhaps the fish interests from Southern California should have had members of the Fourth Estate at the banquet, for they enjoy such affairs as much as the solons.

School Reform

Political observers note a decided effort on the part of all interests to reform California's method of education. The administration forces are trying to break the strangle-hold Will C. Wood and his cohorts have obtained; the farm-labor bloc wants to place the power of recall over the university regents; and the general public demands more efficiency from the schools.

One of the educators here lobbying for the Southern California teachers' association tacitly admitted to the writer that there is "something wrong," but he attributes it to the lack of interest on the part of the public; also, our guiding influences in school affairs are two or three generations older than the students and cannot conceive conditions as they exist.

It might be well to organize our school boards on a different basis, if this lack of sympathy and understanding actually exists.

Community Kite Day Planned for May 5

Albert T. Blanford has been named chairman of the committee of Community Service enthusiasts arranging for "Kite Day" May 5.

A large open space is to be selected as the site for a big contest, and drawings and specifications are being worked out and will be posted in the various school buildings.

Ribbons will be given for first, second and third places in the following events: construction race, ¼ mile dash, ⅛ mile dash, smallest kite, largest kite, strongest puller, best emblem kite, highest flying kite, most artistic kite, best decorated kite, best box kite, best bow kite, best tail kite and best novelty.

There Is One Advantage—

—of a Safe Deposit Box, which is not always considered.

—It is the convenience and satisfaction of having just one place in which to put all of your private papers and valuables. You know just where to put your finger on them, without searching through a number of desk or bureau drawers and other hiding places.

—And you know that they are safe—not only from loss or destruction, but from prying eyes.

—The cost of this convenience and protection is trifling.

HYGIENE and PLUMBING

AT no time in the world's history, have we given so much thought to HYGIENE. This fact is reflected in everything about us. The food we eat; the clothes we wear; the games we play; the houses we live in; in fact in everything in life today.

Man takes better care of himself than he did in the past. He watches his diet; takes care of his body; preserves his energy. He keeps fit. He golfs, he exercises, he motors in the fresh air. He lives more in the outdoors. He thinks of his health.

In all these things, nothing plays so important a part as Modern High-Class Plumbing.

To be healthy, happy and successful think first of the PLUMBING in your home. Select it YOURSELF. Buy it direct. Do business only with a member of the Sanitary Development League. It is composed of over 200 modern successful plumbers in Southern California. They know their business and will treat you fairly. The League is behind them and their work.

TODAY—A condemned slayer awaits, in Kansas, the outcome of a court battle to decide whether or not the state's anti-capital punishment law has been repealed or is still a law.

TOMORROW—Alice Langelier's column of Paris notes tells of the Mi-Careme fete, of the appearance of cherries in the Paris markets and of other events in the French capital. The Paris letter is exchanged with the scheduled Washington letter.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 12.—Whether Missouri has capital punishment or not is the question that is occupying the attention of lawyers here and throughout the state following the raising of the question recently in the case of a man about to be hanged for murder at Hillsboro.

According to leading attorneys the entire question of whether the state may now legally inflict the death penalty on persons convicted of murder and other capital offenses hinges on the construction the supreme court will put on a law which was passed attempting to repeal another law which had prohibited capital punishment.

Several years ago Missouri, after inflicting capital punishment for a great many years, took its place among the few states in the Union which did away with the infliction of the supreme penalty for crime. After several years the Missouri legislature, in 1919, passed what is known as a measure repealing the Whitaker bill, the anti-capital punishment law.

Several months ago James H. Seward was convicted of murder at Hillsboro, in Jefferson county, and, under the existing law, was sentenced to be hanged. Following refusal of the supreme court to grant a new trial and of Governor Arthur M. Hyde to interfere with the execution all plans for the hanging were completed by the sheriff of the county.

Then, at the last moment, a few hours before the deathtrap was scheduled to be sprung, Senator McCawley, of Carthage, whose sympathies were aroused by the plight of the wife and children of the condemned man seeking an audience with the governor in his behalf, threw a monkey wrench into the state's capital punishment machine by obtaining from the supreme court a writ of habeas corpus, which acted to stay the execution of Seward for sixty days, until the supreme court could look into the validity of the law.

The only ground upon which the application for a writ of habeas corpus was based was that the bill passed by the special session of the general assembly in 1919 repealing the Whitaker law prohibiting capital punishment was not legally passed. It is stated by Senator McCawley in his petition that the repealing bill was introduced only four days before it was presented for the signature of the governor after its passage through the two houses.

It is provided in the constitution of the state that all bills must be read on three different days in each body before they can become laws.

If the supreme court should uphold this contention then the Whitaker law prohibiting the infliction of the death penalty is still the law in Missouri and until repealed in the proper manner, as provided by the state constitution, Missouri will remain numbered among the states not having capital punishment.

Pacific Fleet Is Back After 7000 Mile Cruise

LOS ANGELES, April 12.—Steaming along in a procession like a caravan of gray covered wagons in the far distance, the home coming Pacific fleet nosed over the horizon yesterday and headed directly for its home port, Los Angeles harbor.

Excitement broke loose here following the sighting of the first of the bull dogs of the sea from the bluffs of San Pedro and every craft which boasted of a whistle screeched and bellowed in the wild welcome. Salutes thundered from Fort McArthur, welcoming home again the fleet which two months ago left for a 7,000 mile practice cruise to Panama.

Amendment Sought To Halt Child Labor

SACRAMENTO, April 12.—The assembly adopted without opposition a resolution by Miss Esto Broughton, assembly-woman of Modesto, calling upon congress to present to the states a constitutional amendment prohibiting child labor.

The amendment is desired, Miss Broughton said, to meet the situation created by decisions of the United States supreme court holding child labor laws passed by congress to be unconstitutional.

Such a constitutional amendment was proposed some time ago in Washington by Senator Hiram Johnson, Miss Broughton said.

WRECKED BY BOMB

BUER, April 12.—The bridge connecting Buer and Hassel was partly wrecked by a bomb. The French military authorities imposed a 50,000,000 mark fine upon Buer as a penalty.

Urge Fair Deal for California Indians

SACRAMENTO, April 12.—The senate passed a resolution memorializing congress in behalf of California Indians. Senator F. J. Powers, author of the resolution, speaking on the measure explained that 20,000 Indians living in California are in dire need of government aid, that 5,000 children are destitute and without proper educational opportunities and 5,000 families are without homes.

The measure now before congress would make provision for these Indians on a basis carrying out provisions of old treaties whereby the Indians surrendered their land to the United States, but never received their full compensation thereafter.

THEATRES

THE GLENDALE

"The Forgotten Law," a gripping and sensational photoplay released through Metro and featuring Jack Mulhall, Milton Sills and Cleo Ridgley, shows today at the Glendale Theatre for the last time.

"The Forgotten Law" might well be called an all-Glendale picture. It was directed by James V. Horne of Glendale, from a scenario written by Joseph Franklin Poland of Glendale, with a cast including Cleo Ridgley and Alice Hollister of Glendale.

In addition are Waring's Pennsylvanians, the great aggregation of eleven college men who play weird tunes on weirder instruments. This is the musical outfit that played for seven weeks at Grauman's Metropolitan theatre and is said to be the greatest musical treat ever presented in Glendale.

Manager William A. Howe, of the Glendale Theatre, states that he went to no little trouble to secure this fine aggregation of players, and that no advance of prices is being charged for what is unquestionably a superior program.

ASSERT DAUGHTER IS ADOPTED

Seek To Prevent Child From Getting Riches

Above are shown the late Peter Cooper Hewitt, millionaire inventor, of New York, and his widow, now Baroness d'Erlanger, of Paris, with their daughter, Ann Cooper Hewitt. Members of the family assert the child was adopted by the millionaire and his wife, and as such declare she is not entitled to the $30,000 yearly allowance left by her father. Baroness d'Erlanger bitterly denies the charges of Mr. Hewitt's sisters, asserting Mr. Hewitt was the father of the child and that she was not adopted.

APPARATUS AND DEVICES

By RALPH BROWN, RADIO ENGINEER

THE HOMECHARGER

Users of vacuum tubes often desire a battery charging device that can be charged from the house lighting facilities.

The "homecharging" device illustrated herewith is self-polarizing. The battery may be connected either way and it will always charge. There is no danger of reverse charging, ruined battery or burnt out rectifier. This is an unusual feature and makes this device fool proof.

Another feature is that operation stops and consumption of current ceases immediately upon disconnecting battery, which prevents damage to the charger should leads become shorted. Another good featue is that it gives the battery a taper charge, which is always recommended by battery manufacturers.

RADIO DEVELOPMENT

ELEMENTARY ELECTRICITY

In order to make use of electric waves for the practical purpose of sending radio messages it is necessary:

(a) To produce regular disturbances in a circuit which starts the waves. (These disturbances are electric currents which reverse rapidly in direction.)

(b) To get the waves out into surrounding space, through which they travel at great speed. (This is done by means of a transmitting antenna.)

(c) By means of these waves, to set up electric currents in a receiving circuit at a distant station. (The device which these waves strike as they come in and which turns them over to the receiving circuit is called the receiving antenna.)

(d) To change these currents so that they may be detected by electric instruments. (The operator usually receives the message through signals in a telephone receiver.)

The student of radio communication needs a fairly thorough knowledge of electrical theory, more than that needed for some branches of electrical work. The man who would acquire real knowledge of radio must have training i the whole subject of electricity and magnetism.

An understanding of radio communication requires some knowledge of the following subjects:

(a) Direct and alternating current and dynamo machinery.

(b) High frequency alternating current, including the subject of condenser discharge.

(c) Conduction of electric current in a vacuum as well as on wires.

(d) Electric waves, which involves some acquaintance with modern ideas of electricity and the ether.

(e) The apparatus used for the production and reception of electric waves.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

— BY HOWARD R. GARIS —

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE TREE SQUIRREL

"Uncle Wiggily, are you going to hop along and look for adventures today?" asked a voice above the old rabbit gentleman one morning, as Mr. Longears was standing on the stoop of his hollow stump bungalow.

"Why, yes, I am going adventuring," replied Uncle Wiggily. "But who is asking—and why?"

"I am asking, and the reason is I'd like to go with you. I'll have time before school," and down out of a tree scrambled Johnnie Bushytail, one of the squirrels who lived near Uncle Wiggily.

"Oh, so you want to come adventuring with me, do you, Johnnie?" asked Uncle Wiggily, kindly, as he twinkled his pink nose.

"I'd like to, if it isn't too much trouble," answered Johnnie, and he scrambled up a tree and quickly down again, for a squirrel is one of the best climbers of trees in all the world.

"Well, Johnnie, come along," invited Mr. Longears. "Though I can not be sure that I will have an adventure before it is time for you to go to the hollow stump school and say your lessons to the lady mouse teacher. You mustn't be late, you know."

"I won't be late, Uncle Wiggily, I promise you," answered Johnnie.

Then he walked along on the ground beside the bunny rabbit gentleman, and Uncle Wiggily looked on all sides for an adventure. He and the tree squirrel were about half-way to the hollow stump school, when Johnnie said:

"Wouldn't it be great, Uncle Wiggily, if the Fox or Wolf, or Skillery Scallery Alligator should come after you now and I should save you from the bad chaps? Wouldn't that be nifty?"

"Well, it might," said Uncle Wiggily, slowly twinkling his pink nose, "though what you could do, Johnnie—a little squirrel boy like you—to save me from the Wolf or Fox, I'm sure don't know."

"I might be able to do something," chattered Johnnie.

They went on a little farther, and, all of a sudden, out from behind a tree sprang the Fox.

"Oh, ho!" barked the Fuzzy Chap. "Once again I've caught you, Uncle Wiggily, and this time you aren't going to fool me with a mustard custard as you did before."

"No," said the rabbit gentleman sadly, as he looked at the Fox, who had caught hold of him. "Alas, I have no mustard custard with which to trick you now. But perhaps I have something else."

"What?" sneered the Fox.

Uncle Wiggily was just going to say that his friend, Johnnie Bushytail, the squirrel, might do something to save the rabbit from the Fox, but when the bunny gentleman looked around no Johnnie was to be seen.

"I suppose he became frightened and ran away," thought Uncle Wiggily. "Well, it was to be expected. I could hardly hope that Johnnie would be brave enough to stay and drive away the Fox.

"What else or who else have you to save you from me?" sneered the Fox.

"Alas! No one," sadly said the bunny. "I suppose you will nibble my ears now."

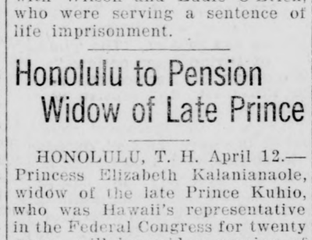
"That's right!" laughed the cruel Fox. And he was just going to nibble the rabbit's ears, when, all of a sudden, from the tree branches overhead there fell a heavy piece of bark, hitting the Fox on his nose. "Here, who's throwing things at me?" snarled the Fox. No one answered, and once again he leaned over to nibble the bunny's ears.

But, all of a sudden, another piece of bark fell and hit the Fox on his nose.

"Here! Stop that," he barked; but no one answered. Uncle Wiggily thought it was the wind. Once again the Fox leaned forward to nibble the Bunny's ears, but all of a sudden a heavy piece of wood fell and hit the Fox so hard on his nose that the bad chap howled and ran away, crying:

"Oh, there must be a fairy up that tree and throwing things at me."

And when the Fox had run away without nibbling Uncle Wiggily's ears, down out of the tree scrambled Johnnie the squirrel.



"Oh ho!" barked the Fuzzy Chap.

"Did you think I ran away and left you?" asked the squirrel of the bunny gentleman. "Well, I didn't! I climbed up the tree and I dropped things down on the nose of the Fox!"

"Good boy, Johnnie," laughed Uncle Wiggily, and then he made Johnnie hurry on to school so he wouldn't be late.

So, after all, the little tree squirrel proved to be a hero. And if the tack lifter doesn't try to pick all the spots off the polka dot necktie, thinking it has the chicken-pox, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the digging dog.

Deny Wilson Appeal From Murder Verdict

LOS ANGELES, April 12.—Herb Wilson, whose conviction of the murder of Herbert Cox, his partner in crime, was affirmed by the district court of appeals, will probably endeavor to carry his appeal of the case to the supreme court, it was reported.

The district court of appeals, in handing down its ruling on Wilson's appeal, upheld Superior Judge Wood and sustained the verdict. Wilson's appeal contended that sufficient evidence was not produced to show that Cox did not commit suicide.

Cox was murdered April 9, 1922 while he was attempting to escape from the county jail, by means of the "bridge of sighs," with Wilson and Eddie O'Brien, who were serving a sentence of life imprisonment.

Honolulu to Pension Widow of Late Prince

HONOLULU, T. H. April 12.—Princess Elizabeth Kalanianaole, widow of the late Prince Kuhio, who was Hawaii's representative in the Federal Congress for twenty years, will be paid a pension of $500 monthly for life by the Territory of Hawaii, under the terms of a bill now before the legislature which has already met with the approval of the lower house. The plea was made that the sum was due the Princess, not only because of the distinguished services rendered on behalf of the Hawaiian people by her husband, but because of her own royal blood.

Considerable opposition to the bill was voiced in the house, several members attacking the sum as being too high, but it was finally passed when it was pointed out in debate that less than that would not be fitting to vote for one who was formerly a member of royalty.

Heiress to Millions Leases $50 Apartment

ST. CHARLES, Ill., April 12.—Mrs. Lester Norris, who was Miss Deliora Angell, heiress to John W. Gates' $38,000,000, is speeding here from her Pasadena, Cal., winter home on a special train with her husband of less than a month to take possession of a $50 a month flat on Main street here.

Mrs. Norris has taken a three year lease on the building. Its present appointments indicate the couple plan to live there in utter simplicity, although it is said Mrs. Norris will bring art treasures valued at $1,000,000 to St. Charles.

The bride purchased a thirty-eight acre tract here because it is her girlhood home. Her husband is a Chicago newspaper artist.

EXPLAINS TRUST DEEDS TO BOARD

Title Company Expert Clears Up Intricacies of Real Estate Business

Some of the intricacies connected with the practice of the real estate profession, especially those dealing with trust deeds, were explained at the weekly meeting of the Glendale Realty Board at the C. & S. Cafeteria by J. F. Keogh, chief trust officer of the Title Guarantee & Trust Company of Los Angeles, who cleared up some of the mysteries that surround these particular instruments and dealt with the problems that confront the principals and agents in the successful carrying out of a real estate transaction.

A trust deed, he explained, is in the nature of a mortgage except that it has three parties, instead of two, as in the case of a mortgage. The trust deed, however, does not convey the title to any property, and other incumbrances may be placed on any property covered by a trust deed, which gives the right to re-convey the property when the debt is paid or gives the power to sell the property if the obligation that it evidences is not paid.

Mr. Keogh explained the methods of transferring the title to any property involved in a deal and stated that the fear of a snap judgment in the case of the failure of a person to meet the indebtedness shown by a trust deed is largely unfounded. He submitted to the members of the board several forms of notes and other instruments that the Title Guarantee & Trust Company uses in the various departments and explained their meaning, and he stated that an additional loan cannot be made on a trust deed unless the details of the loan are recorded, and the buyer of a trust deed cannot make an additional loan on it as he is not a party to the trust deed.

Can't Outlaw Deed

The introduction of several bills in the state legislature seeking to do away with trust deeds, he declared, would have a tendency to delay and hamper almost every real estate transaction attempted, and any plan to do away with this aid to property sales should be resisted.

One point that he brought out was that the right to sell under trust deed never becomes outlawed, and a court order would never be needed to foreclose on the property represented by such a deed, even though the debt remained unpaid for a century.

Mr. Keogh urged that the realty board members prepare all the papers in every transaction carefully and completely before bringing them in to be recorded and to attach all papers to the search order, so that the work of his organization might be expedited as much as possible in hunting up the title to any piece of property, and he assured them of the readiness of the Title Guarantee & Trust Company to co-operate in every possible way in putting papers through the regular routine in the shortest possible time.

A number of the local realtors will attend the meeting of the Realtors of Southern California which is to be held at Long Beach Saturday, April 21, when the work of the district convention will be divided into three distinct sections which will receive the attenton of all the delegates.

The usual routine business occupied a portion of the time at yesterday's meeting.

SPEEDERS WEEP

DETROIT, April 12.—Weeping sadly as they gazed upon child victims of reckless driving, thirty-three speeders were taken through the children's ward of receiving hospitals by Judge C. L. Bartlett, after sixteen had received house of correction sentences and seventeen had been fined. As the judge concluded a picture there were tears in his eyes and few of the forty-three speeders were dry-eyed. One by one they pledged their support of Judge Bartlett's campaign.

That's All

King's Crown Lies Uneasy
Tell Secrets In Reel Life
William Sproule Speaks
Glendale Gets Publicity

By Gil A. Cowan

FERDINAND, King of Rumania, is the next crowned head to get the "gate", if reports of anti-royalist demonstrations are to be believed.

And there is no reason to doubt but what all European countries will soon dispose of their more or less useless monarchs in name only. How England continues the custom of a king is only explained by the fact they have had a king so long they maintain the precedent. But we heartily believe if the Prince of Wales were to run in an election for president of the British Empire he would win, hands down.

Only the other day Albert Edward's mount dashed him into a blooming pond, don't you know, and his nibs rescued the 'orse and 'imself. That's the bully boy to have as a prospective ruler, but his ability to handle a situation should be displayed in an American political campaign. It might be a horse of another color, don't you think?

Motion picture fans still are poring over the results announced in Los Angeles as the result of a questionnaire being answered by 114 actresses. It was a great little idea to have these women tell their ages, bare their soul secrets, etc., but like the "spooning" questionnaire, what good will come of it?

What does it matter whether an actress, or actor, or business man, or stenographer, is happily married so long as they can do that for which they are paid. Sometimes we think the public is too severe on film celebrities. They are only human like the rest of us.

To Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lloyd should be given real credit for having conducted their marriage in a manner above reproach. They refused to capitalize the ceremony for publicity. And so far they have not made themselves foolish in the eyes of the public by silly rows, such as are evidenced in the Pickford-Miller, Chaplin-Negri instances.

And scandal mongers are not carrying the names of Harold or Mildred on their tongues. All of which is commendable, although seldom commented upon in the public print.

William Sproule, president of the Southern Pacific railroad, said a mouthful in the progressive California number of the San Francisco Chronicle, to wit:

"California—strong in virility of soil and people of pioneer stock. In size—big as New England, New York and Pennsylvania combined.

"Location—on the shore of the Pacific highway to the vast population of the Far East, between the desert and the sea—God's two sanatoriums for weary flesh and weary minds.

"Best living on a little land, with water controlled, and no extremes of seasons; every day outdoors for work, play, sowing or harvest.

"Cosmopolitan and metropolitan—the western training ground of men for big business, stage, press and pulpit.

"Advertised by romance in song and mission story, prose and poetry; by gold, in metal, fruit and flowers.

"'It's a Bear' with Bull tendencies."

If William Sproule wrote the foregoing, he missed his calling in the publicity field. Rather, the railroads are able to hire real brains at the head of their organizations to the detriment of the press and pulpit.

At the same time we cannot conceive of a man of Mr. Sproule's brilliancy who will let his railroad, the greatest of the southwest, maintain a station such as is found here.

The Southern Pacific should give this city a depot commensurate to the tributary territory it serves.

Glendale, Hollywood, Pasadena and other points accessible to the Glendale station merit a structure second to none for beauty, accommodations and service.

C'mon, Bill. Show those California Bull tendencies and build us something worth while right away quick!

The Glendale Evening News two months ago forecast three million dollar months in building this spring, not to say that several more are in sight for 1923. And the writer commented on the fact it would give Glendale a great deal of publicity.

Now here's the story. In a recapitulation for February the American Builder and Contractor of Chicago shows Glendale to be the last on the list of thirty-four cities doing over one million dollars' worth of building.

Think of it, folks. Glendale, an almost unknown village fifteen years ago, now ranks thirty-fourth among the cities of the nation in building!

And 'ere long it will be in the list of the 200 most populous, not to forget the fact that it is increasing at the rate of 100 per cent a year!

Nothing like it in the history of the world that we ever heard about. Have you?

CALLS CONFERENCE

OLYMPIA, Wash., April 12.—As the first step in carrying out the fight which he is making to retain the minimum wage law in ths state, Governor Louis F. Hart today sent a telegram inviting governors of New York, California Kansas, Oregon and Wisconsin to join in issuing a call for a governors' conference.

FLOOD OF BILLS HITS EXECUTIVE

Legislature Shows Speed in Passing Measures; Tax On Oil Live Topic

By GIL A COWAN
Special to The Evening News

SACRAMENTO, April 12.—Real action now is being obtained in the California legislature. Bills are being ratified quite regularly by both houses and going to the governor for signatures.

Among the measures of general importance which have gone the gauntlet is one by Senator A. Burlingame Johnson which authorizes the establishment of county museums.

The mere title of the bill, however, fails to reveal the most important part, that which permits the interchange of objects of art and history, thus fortifying new museums with the accumulated wealth of an institution such as the Los Angeles Museum.

Propose Oil Control

Advertisements of the oil wealth of California have turned the eyes of farm bloc in the assmbly toward this natural resource for revenue. Assemblyman Van Bernard proposes to place a 5-cent per barrel tax on all crude production. Assemblyman S. L. Heisinger would put the industry under the control of the state railroad commission and Senator Arthur H. Breed has a bill pending to tax gasoline 2 cents a gallon.

The ingathering of revenues for government is an interesting process. More and more money is constantly needed by a growing state.

In the opinion of the writer Governor Richardson's policy that the state must live within its revenue, is both right and wrong. There is no question but what the state should not spend more money than it can obtain legitimately, without burdening the public. But we see no reason why Bernard's suggestion or Breed's suggestion that additional revenue be raised and these moneys be expended economically and efficiently is not good government.

Need 'Watch Services'

It is charged that Richardson is trying to establish the hypothesis that the King bill levy on the railroads is not necessary. While we doubt the verity of this criticism, coming as it does from propagandists, the people of the state do want to see the Southern Pacific, the Union Pacific, the Santa Fe, the Pullman Company, the oil companies, the power trust, etc., share the burden of taxation with the farmer and the small home owner.

Therefore, "watch services" must be held over the actions of the administration as well as those departments which do not desire to conform to the demands of economy made by the public.

In the meantime, we will relish a grain of salt in our reading the accounts of "budget fatalities."

VARIED PROGRAM BEFORE EXCHANGE

Club Members Hear Music, Talks During Luncheon Meet on Wednesday

Several solos were sung by Madame Teodora Wisnieswska of Los Angeles yesterday noon in the Harriet Mae Tea Room, 201 East Harvard, at the weekly luncheon of the Glendale Exchange club.

Guests of the occasion were John B. Merrell of Toledo, Ohio, member of the extension committee of the National Exchange club, and three members of the Long Beach Exchange club; Harry K. Stephenson, Earl R. Harper and Max R. Wallace.

Attendance prizes, presented by Attorney W. C. Anspach of 111 East Broadway, were won by Capt. D. Ripley Jackson, who presided, E. B. Sutton and I. B. Carlock. They were placards announcing fines of fifteen, thirty and forty million marks or 10, 15 and 25 cents.

Appeal to "Carry On"

In a short speech, in which he related several anecdotes, Mr. Merrell made an appeal to the local club to "carry on" in the spirit of exchange.

Harry L. Leavitt, director general of the Glendale Industrial Exposition, and Joseph F. Geisler, its business manager, were present, also.

"There is only one thing which makes a successful organization like this or, in fact, any organization," stated Mr. Stephenson. "You may call it service but I think it is friendship or brotherly love."

Husband of Hammer Murderess in Suit

SAN FRANCISCO, April 12.—When Arthur Tobin, charged with the issuance of a bad check for $100, appeared for arraignment in court, A. T. Phillips, who brought the charge, failed to appear to prosecute and the charge was dismissed. It developed in the proceedings that Phillips is Armour L. Phillips, husband of Clara Phillips, "hammer murderess" who escaped some time ago from the Los Angeles jail. Phillips was said to be general manager of an oil company having offices here.

CITY KEYS WILL BE TURNED OVER

Mayors of Three Cities Will Share in Opening of Exposition

Mayor Spencer Robinson has notified H. L. Leavitt, the director general of the Merchants Industrial Exposition, to be held here from May 25 to June 3, that he stands ready to turn over the keys of the city to the exposition management and the visitors who will be here then as soon as the opening ceremony has been completed. Mayor Robinson will be assisted in the opening exercises by Mayor Cryer of Los Angeles and by Mayor S. L. Berkley of Santa Monica and Ocean Park.

Among the endorsements that have been received by the exposition during the last few days are those from the Exchange club and the Shrine club, and these organizations have pledged themselves to work for the success of the project.

Recent sales of space have reduced the number of available booths at the exposition to twenty, and it is predicted by Mr. Leavitt that these will be sold before the end of this month.

Among the latest attractions booked for the exposition is an exhibit of forty-five lions from the Charles Gay lion farm of Los Angeles, all of these animals having been raised in California on one of the most noted establishments in the world.

Unemployment Problem Has Been Settled, Declares Commerce Chief

By SONIA LEE
For International News Service

DES MOINES, Iowa, April 12.—Crediting the vigorous policy of the present administration in settling the problem of unemployment, with responsibility for the "re-establishment of sanity in the United States," Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce, speaking before the greater Des Moines committee, outlined the fundamental basis of a nation's health.

"Employment is fundamental to sanity in a nation," said Hoover. "The first duty of a government is to get its people employed. Other problems adjust themselves."

Secretary Hoover came to Des Moines to address the convention of the League of Women Voters. He spoke to the women last night.

Continuing his talk before the Des Moines committee Hoover said:

"The country is normal now. From a condition where 5,000,000 men were without work two years ago when this administration came into power, we now have half a million jobs begging for men.

"The Harding administration has been marked by economic reconstruction. The economic crisis is passed. There are no indications that we are on the way towards unhealthy booms, nor are we likely to see a period of depression. The government's policy is to suspend its policy of building activity in times like these and re-inaugurate them when work is slack."

The Man on the wire

TODAY'S SHORT STORY, BY Ad Schuster

The domestic bark of Arthur and Mabel Camp was going on the rocks. The five years' voyage had been one of many hardships, and now—well, there was little chance to save the craft.

"If I could get a good job," Arthur said, "if you could have a few more of the things you want, and need, we might be happy. Better stand by a while longer, Mabel, and give me a chance."

"I wonder," the wife answered wearily, "how many times you have said just that."

That was all there had been to the conversation. Arthur took his hat and went for a walk. It was worse than Mabel knew. There was not any money, now. He had been foolish not to save it when it was coming easy. For more than an hour he walked, wondering what he would do when she left him. It was coming some day. And, with a little luck, he kept telling himself, things might have been different.

It was close to midnight when Arthur Camp neared the railroad station. He was strangely intent now, made desperate by hours of rehearsing his story. Mabel must not go, he had decided that, and nothing but money would keep her.

There were but two or three scattered lights in the station. At this hour the whole place was in charge of no more than a couple of men, and one of those was busy over the telegraph key. In the baggage room, he thought, there must be things unguarded. Possibly there was money there. Arthur Camp became a burglar before he entered the building. He walked and felt like a thief, and to nerve himself he repeated again and again a formula that he was doing this for Mabel. If he stopped to think, he realized, he would know it was for himself. He must not think.

There were large cases and long shadows in the baggage room. Arthur felt the ropes and the straps, and looked around for something small. Then he opened the drawer in a rough desk and, without knowing it, set off an alarm. That is where they caught him.

"There may be more of them," the policeman said. "Anyhow, we'll have to chuck him somewhere until I can look around and the wagon comes."

Station agent and policeman thrust the silent husband into the express room and locked the door. Arthur heard them walk away, then looked around his prison. There was no way of getting out of here.

"When Mabel hears of this," he said, "she will leave." He wished there was some way of keeping it from her. He sat down on a box and, with his head in his hands, waited for the return of the policeman. A bell buzzed somewhere in the corner of the room and he did not move.

The ringing of the bell became insistent. It was a telephone. Arthur rose, looked around, then answered the call the instrument seemed to exert.

"Hello, express department," it was the friendly voice of a night operator who had time for conversation. "I tried the office first, then the baggage room. There's a lady on the line who seems to want you pretty bad."

"Hello," it was a low voice this time, one struggling with nervous excitement. "Could you tell me when the first train leaves for Meadows? Is there one before morning?"

Meadows? And the voice? This was Mabel speaking, and she was planning to back to her mother's. She had decided to go before she had learned of this scrape he was in. Perhaps, if she knew, she would stand by him, help him out. That would be like the old Mabel. Arthur held the receiver in his hand and struggled with a desire to pour out his story. He could hear steps outside.

"Well, can't you hear me?"

"Beg pardon, ma'am, I was looking on the card," answered the husband in as strange a voice as he could put on. There was a card on the wall beside the telephone.

"There's a train for Meadows at five-twenty." And he hung up the receiver and walked to the door to meet the policeman.

BEAUTY CHATS

by EDNA KENT FORBES

AFTER THE BABY

Women who have been interested in the beauty chats for the young mother have written to me and asked what to do after the baby comes.

First of all, I shuld say—and most doctors agree with this—stay in bed until you feel quite able to get up and be about. Most doctors insist upon three weeks flat in bed, and one week devoted to gradual getting up—five minutes in a chair, then 15 minutes in a chair, then a walk to the other side of the room, and so on until full strength comes back. Some women cannot afford to take so much time, which is a tragic pity, and some are too impatient to do so, and a few don't need so much rest.

Meantime, while in bed, take excises. This can be done from the second week until you are on your feet again. While lying flat, raise one leg straight in the air, then the other leg, then both legs. At first you can do it but once, soon a dozen times easily. When you are stronger, lie on the floor, feet under some heavy bit of furniture and hands on the hips. Raise yourself thus to a sitting position, and do the leg exercises, too. This is the thing that will strengthen all those weak and stretched abdominal muscles and make you as slim and flat as you were before.

After a time add waist bending exercises standing up, and arm and chest exercises, too, if you grew round shouldered while you did not feel well. Be patient, and persist, only exercise can give you back your slender, youthful grace. Corsets, or at least some sort of girdle, you must wear for a time, even though you never believed in corsets. What doctors call "the abdominal wall" must be held up. But these won't strengthen weak muscles, only exercise will.

There are other things you must do to regain your prettiness, if you feel the maternity period has spoiled it. But these we'll talk about later. The chief thing now, as well as before the birth of the baby, is not to worry. Take good care of yourself and don't fret about new things.

Peggy.—An oily scalp, which is also full of dandruff, shows there is an abnormal condition. Massage the scalp daily until you feel all the muscles glowing through the increased circulation. Aim to loosen all the scalp muscles from the bones, as a healthy scalp must be a loose one.

A good hair tonic applied three times a week will also help much, but if you cannot get this, persistent massage will restore your scalp to perfect health and start your hair to growing again. This will also improve the color, as it is likely that the unhealthy condition of the scalp has caused the color to become faded.

Isabell. — Massage the legs every night, using cocoa butter to fatten them. The pits in your skin left from squeezing pimples will require treatment from a dermatologst. I shall be glad to mail you formulas for cleansing and nourishing creams, if you request them, and send me a stamped, addressed envelope.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

My Dear Followers: Please don't send me money! It hurts too much to send it back. I am not in private practice. All the help I am able to give you, you can have by taking this paper and writing me for articles which I speak of from time to time in our column, making sure to enclose the stamped envelope which you have addressed yourself. I thank you sincerely for the confidence you express in me, but it is impossible for me to give you direct personal advice. Sorry!

"Dear Doctor.

"For more than 20 years I was in poor health. Leakage of the heart, inflammation of the gall bladder, and a displaced spleen were a few of the things I was supposed to have. I may have all of these troubles, but day by day in every way I am getting better and better—since I began reading your articles.

"I weighed 100 pounds. Today I weigh 120 pounds. I am 58 years old and I feel younger than I did at 40. Your suggestion of taking fruit juice between meals helped to make the gain, as well as learning how to eat to live. I feel very grateful to you. Will you please write something on the spleen?—Mrs. R."

Isn't that a nice letter? I always feel so happy when I get the letters from those who have gained, because it proves my contention that very, very often underweight is due to incorrect habits of eating and especially eating too little. Those who suffer from being underweight from this cause really have a starvation acidosis.

We have recently had an article on acidosis. Those of you who are interested may have it by sending the self-addressed, stamped envelope (s. a. s. e.) You may also have the pamphlet on gaining, by enclosing four cents in stamps with your s. a. s. e. and requesting it.

Yes, I shall write on the spleen some time. The liver, the heart, the brain, the kidneys and about a hundred other disconsolate organs are waiting in line ahead, though.

"Dear Doctor:

"I am a girl 15 years old and was terribly overweight. I guess I must have set one of my chums, a girl of 18, about wild talking about it. One she asked me if I really meant what I said about wanting to reduce, and if I would do anything, and I said yes.

"She showed me a magazine article you had written. Well, we began making plans. I followed your directions, and the last time I was weighed I was 45 pounds lighter than I was last winter.

"Every once in a while I get an eating spell. I had one Christmas, and I got real angry at myself. I cannot eat as much as I used to and that is one comfort. Every time I overeat my father generally gives me an awful look. And when I gain, my, but doesn't my friend get after me!—M."

I just love to get these letters from children. If a girl 15 years old can stick to controlling her appetite until she loses 45 pounds, I'll say she is some girl. There isn't anything she wants to do that she is not going to be able to accomplish.

Now, dear M., don't worry about those occasional "eating spells" you get. They won't hurt you if you don't overeat too much. And we all do it occasionally. And we all do the same as you do, get angry at ourselves afterwards. However, if we go on a low calorie day the next day no harm seems to be done and we soon lose what we have gained. I am glad your father gives you that awful look when you do overeat. It shows that he knows of the importance of children not being overweight.

I think it is nice of your chum to get after you, too. Our real friends are those who try to help us be our best. When corrections are made tactfully and not before others we welcome them and realize it is a true sign of friendship that they want us to be nice in all ways.

You must remember that you are growing, so you need especially to have the correct diet. You should include at least a quart of skim milk (320 C.'s) in your diet every day for its mineral elements for your bones, and you can take a little butter (1 tbsp., 100 C.'s) if you take skim milk.

Write to us again, dear. You are an inspiration.

This is the season when many housekeepers are doing over their floors. Few of us can afford to hire a professional painter to do the work for us—but the woman of today has learned how to handle a paint brush in a way which would have amazed her great-grandmother. Necessity has been the mother of decorative skill.

In many homes we find painted floors, particularly in houses built long ago. In the majority of cases these floors are in need of refinishing. Why not "grain" them in refinishing them? ?

Graining is not hard to do. And the effect of hardwood which it gives is more than worth the trouble of going over it with a graining tool.

This is how to do it: Buy from your hardware man some yellowish ground paint to put on your floor over the old coat. Also buy a brownish graining preparatiton and the graining tool—a quarter-round rubber roller.

If the floor is badly worn, it will need two coats of the yellowish ground paint. When these have dried thoroughly, apply the brownish graining preparation over only four boards at a time for a space of about three feet. Draw the graining tool along these four wet boards, rocking it gradually up and down; this gives a most realistic grained effect.

When you have finished graining the three-foot area on these four boards, lay aside the graining tool for a moment, while you apply more of the graining preparation to a similar area farther down on the same four boards. Do not work on any other boards until you have grained these four the entire length of the room.

You have, no doubt, noticed how joints on a real hardwood floor are "staggered" in laying the wood floor? This same effect can be obtained in graining by not stopping at the same place on each board. In other words, be sure to bring the end of the graining tool's stroke to different points on the adjoining boards so that the laps will not be conspicuous.

After the entire floor is grained and dry, it will need a coat of varnish stain (this is simply a durable varnish stain with a dye in it to represent walnut, oak or mahogany color). This varnish stain may be thinned with turpentine if it is too heavy to apply easily. Two coats of varnish may be put on if you desire a darker finish, but only one coat is really necessary.

Next week I am going to tell you how I grain woodwork and old furniture.

IS YOUR FOOD RIGHT?

A woman I know has four children whom she has to support on the money allowed her by the state, as her husband died leaving her almost penniless with three children under four and another one coming.

The sum allowed her is very small but the children are so young that she cannot go out to supplement it.

You should see those four children. Because they are so pathetic and ill-fed? No, because they are so rosy, plump and healthy looking.

She Deserves a Medal

Evidently that mother manages somehow to get the right sort of food and cook it properly and keep those children properly fed.

And that is what I call a tremendous achievement.

Doesn't the Carnegie Foundation give a medal for simple, every-day, day-in-and-day-out heroism? It is my impression that it does. And if it does, I beg to call to its attention as a possible candidate, this mother.

Think of the common sense and the care and the infinite capacity for taking pains (which is, you know, one of the definitions of genius), that that woman must bring to her job.

Her Work of Art

Truly she has genius of a sort which the world greatly needs. Those four rosy cheeked healthy children are her work of art and she has a good reason to be proud of it.

It has often been said that an army moves on its belly.

It is as true, if not as generally recognized, that the armies of peace cannot greatly achieve unless their food is right.

In a book on the political situation in England, which I have recently been reading, the author claims that much of the unrest and unhappiness among the English laboring classes is due to the fact that their food is not right. Many of the women go to work in the factories and then feed their families on prepared foods in which the elements of nourishment are lacking. Jam and bread is one of the staple English meals, and when the jam is a synthetic sweetness without the food value real jam would have, the family which eats it is cheated of proper nourishment.

Not Always Poverty

Proper nourishment isn't necessarily a matter of plenty of money. One of the big Boston doctors declares that where it has been possible to make comparison, more malnutrition has been found in the homes of the well-to-do than in the homes of the poor. He declared that one-third of the children in the ordinary American community are underweight and malnourished.

That isn't because they haven't enough food, but because they haven't the proper food.

The mother who makes it her most serious interest to see that her children are fed the right food, at regular intervals, and of course plenty of it, is doing one of the biggest things for the good of the world she can possibly do.

STOCKS, MARKETS

NEW YORK, April 12.—The decline in call money rates, a better demand for stocks from the public brisk short covering, combined to give the stock market a strong and firm tone today.
Oil stocks were fractionally lower at the start, but rose when buying orders concentrated on the market. The decline of ten cents a barrel in Ohio crude oil was without especial interest in the oil stocks.
Cuban American Sugar and Punta Allegre registered the highest prices on the movement. Gulf States Steel, after opening at 97½, rose to 99. Kelly Springfield tire rose 3 points to above 60. U. S. Rubber rose about 2 points to above 61½. Studebaker rose 1¼ to 123¾.
Government bonds unchanged; railway and other bonds steady.
Sales today 886,500 shares; bonds $9,938.00.

In Grain Markets
CHICAGO, April 12.—Although the opening prices in all grains were lower today, the power of the bull influence made itself felt and high marks were registered above yesterday's close. The close, however, showed slight losses. Early bear movements were caused by profit-taking on yesterday's market but later there was scrambling to get back into what was believed to still be a rising market.
Wheat closed ⅜c lower to ⅛c higher. Corn finished ⅛c to ⅜c lower. Oats ended up ⅛c to ⅜c off.
Lard and ribs finished slightly stronger. Lard advanced 3 to 8c up. Ribs two cents higher.

Lighting Policy Will Be Costly, Is Claim

The difficulty of cutting down next year's tax levy when voters Tuesday approved the payment of the maintenance of ornamental lights through general taxation was emphasized this morning by City Manager W. H. Reeves. He called attention to the fact that the majority of 267 votes given lighting proposition No. 1 means an expenditure of at least $30,000 a year for street lights.
"In another year or two this sum will be a hundred thousand dollars," he remarked. "Wait until the glad news gets about!"

Kentucky Man May Head Confederate Vets

NEW ORLEANS, April 12.—General Julian Carr, commander of the United Confederate Veterans, in a statement to International News Service today announced his withdrawal from the race for re-election. He stated he would nominate General W. B. Raldeman of Kentucky for the post.
General Raldeman's election over General James A. Thomas of Georgia is claimed on the first ballot by the former's supporters.

Foes Drive Soviets Out of Vladivostok

LONDON, April 12.—Vladivostop, the great Siberian port on the Pacific coast, has been captured from the Bolshevists by "white" forces, after a fierce struggle, according to a report received today from Helsingfors. The red troops were said to have taken refuge outside the city, where they are awaiting reinforcements before attempting to retake it. Vladivostok has been in the hands of the soviets since the latter part of last year.

World Court Feeler For League, Is Claim

DES MOINES, Ia., April 12.—That the Harding administration is using the international court as a "feeler" of public opinion with respect to the League of Nations was the contention today by Mrs. Emily Newell Blair, vice chairman of the Democratic committee, who is here to speak at the fourth annual convention of the National League of Women Voters.

OPINIONS DIFFER

WASHINGTON, April 12.—The attitude of the navy department on the proposed raising of gun turrets on American capital ships to increase their firing range was laid before President Harding today by Acting Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt. Roosevelt holds that the work should proceed as directed by congress, but Secretary of State Hughes thinks it would constitute a violation of the Washington naval treaty.

AWAITS JURY ACTION

LOS ANGELES, April 12.—Action by the federal grand jury was awaited today in the case of Sidney Bramsey, asserted originator of the "U Kiss 'Em and I Hugg 'Em company, love brokers and specialties in affairs of the heart," who is being held in the county jail on a charge of sending alleged objectionable matter through the mails. His bond is fixed at $2500.

KILBANE, WILSON TO BE RESTORED

Muldoon's Decrees Are to Be Ignored by Gotham Sporting Men

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service

NEW YORK, April 12.—Johnny Kilbane and Johnny Wilson, respective featherweight and middleweight champions of the world, will be restored to good standing in New York state within a matter of days. Their reinstatement here is a mere formality, according to sources of unquestioned reliability.
New riders are in the saddle, with the appointment by Governor Smith of a license committee, and all unpopular decrees by Muldoon and his commission are to be reversed or ignored altogether. The suspensions of Kilbane and Wilson are the least popular of these decisions.
The first step in the fistic revolution was taken when Frank Marlow, who purchased the managerial rights on Wilson from Marty Kililea for $5,000, will confer with Tex Rickard in an effort to learn his attitude toward the Greb-Wilson contract which the middle-weight champion never fulfilled. If Rickard is no longer interested, Muldoon will have no alternative but to reinstate Wilson without delay.

Sop to Muldoon
Otherwise, Marlow and Wilson will go through with the Greb affair, not because they feel this to be obligatory, but as a sop to Muldoon's vanity, sorely wounded by the summary curtailment of his hitherto despotic power.
He, apparently, will continue to sit as chairman of the commission but this will be an empty honor, since the new license commission will pass on the eligibility of boxers, managers, seconds and clubs. Some persons, however, allege that Muldoon will elect to withdraw as gracefully as possible, but the iron duke has given no verbal indication that he harbors this intention.

Police Trace Record Of Arrested Burglar

Harry Webster of Los Angeles, who was arrested Monday afternoon by Officer William LaRock with two suitcases full of loot which he had stolen from the home of William A. Gibson of 518 East Windsor road, has a criminal record.
This fact was established yesterday by Detective Sergeant W. J. Royal who investigated the records at the county jail. He found that Webster's real name is Arthur J. Wilson, although he has used the alias of Harold C. Foster. He was photographed and finger-printed July 22, 1921.

Bonar Law Yields to Opposition's Demands

LONDON, April 12.—The "strong arm" tactics of the opposition in the house of commons wrung a concession from the government today when Chancellor of the Exchequer Stanley Baldwin announced that a commission would conduct an inquiry into the treatment of ex-soldiers employed in the civil service.

The WORLD OVER
By FRANKLIN B. MORSE.
PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

Fifty girls of Stanford university have signed up in the Women's Physical Education department to take a course in track and field athletics. The events in which the young women will be instructed are the shot put, broad jump, high jump, relay, 100-yard dash, 220-yard dash, the quarter mile, discus and javelin throws. The coaches are Miss Georgina Burk and Miss Christine Fabb.

With the rowing season swinging into its final stretch before the annual University of Washington and California eight-oared race in the Oakland, Calif., estuary on April 21, it is possible to approximate the men as they will sit in the boats when the big struggle comes about that will decide which will go East for the Poughkeepsie classic on the Hudson river. Here they are:

California	Pos.	Washington
Gardner	Stroke	Walling
Donaldson	No. 7	Dutton
Crammer	No. 6	Shaw, Capt.
Williams, Cpt	No. 5	Murphy
Lindstrom	No. 4	Parkins
Harbach	No. 3	Spuhn
Dunn	No. 2	Luft
Leakemp	No. 1	Tidmarsh
Dixon	Coxswain	Grant

Critics favor the chances of the Washington oarsmen to win the event, as Coach Walldo of California has only one veteran of last year's boat in his 1923 crew.

Notwithstanding the fact that critics declare that Battling Siki, the Senegalese boxer, is a thing of the past as far as the ring is concerned, he continues to get into the news columns. However, it is not the kind of publicity that public characters seek, and will only serve to further disgust ring followers. Here are the activities:
First, returned to France in a tramp steamer.
Second, started the cry of "fraud" in connection with his fight against McTigue which he lost.
Third, involved in an early morning brawl in a Paris cafe. Next!

Nearly one hundred aspirants for football honors at Stanford university turned out for preliminary spring practice when Coach "Pop" Warner came to the coast to look over the men he has signed a contract to advise for another year and then to take the full and active job of putting on the gridiron. Warner, after looking over the material, expressed the opinion that a tremendous step forward had been taken since a year ago in learning the rudiments of the game. Last year the Stanford squad knew mighty little about the rudimentals, let alone the fine points.

The Sport Crucible
By Davis J. Walsh
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, April 12.—When De Hart Hubbard, Michigan freshman; Ned Gourdin, former Harvard athlete, and Sol Butler, the spade flush from Dubuque, placed one-two-three in the running broad jump at the national championships, it struck many observers as being more than a psychic oddity or mere coincidence that three negroes should so completely dominate one particular event. It was.
At least so says Dan Ferris, track and field authority.
"Colored athletes are imitative," is Dan's explanation. "They are unconscious mimics. When they saw Butler winning broad jumping events a vast percentage of them began to jump. Then came Gourdin, with a new world's record of 25 feet 3 inches. That settled it. From now on colored jumpers are very apt to be in the limelight."
The worthy Daniel is quite right so far as he goes. He could go further, however. The writer has in mind the occasion, some seventeen years ago, when the late John B. Taylor first came into prominence as a quarter-miler at Pennsylvania. Taylor, one of the pioneer negroes in track athletics, created something of a commotion by jumping out of a "pocket" and running around his field to win the title in 48 4-5 seconds at the Intercollegiates.
Taylor was the first real track celebrity of the colored race. He had an unusually lengthy stride —nine feet from toe to toe. Almost overnight Franklin Field, Philadelphia, where Taylor did his training, was inundated with negro quarter-milers, some promising enough, some otherwise, and all of them used that long, lazy Taylor stride, even if they had to dislocate a careless hip.
Taylor's brother-in-law, Malson by name and imitative by nature, picked up his every mannerism within a comparatively few weeks. But he overlooked the rather vital matter of speed. He couldn't run fast enough to keep warm.
In fact, the negro at large was not a successful quarter-miler, nor has he since been able to travel a distance with the best of the white runners. In consequence, when Taylor lost caste by finishing fourth behind Carpenter and Robbins, the Americans, and Lieutenant Halswelle, of England, in the famous 400-metre race at the 1908 Olympics, quarter-mile running ceased to be a vogue among the colored athletes.
Shortly thereafter Howard Drew flashed across the public retina as the fastest sprinter in America, and immediately every negro was a sprinter. The backwash of that movement is still with us today, the negro being thus inclined as much by choice as by the suggestion of Drew's prominence. Even Butler and Gourdin themselves started out to be sprinters. They merely drifted into broad jumping as a side issue when they found the going a trifle too fast for the particular kind of brunette heels they possessed.
At that, it is doubtful whether they would have amounted to anything if they had not taken a whirl at the spinning game. More than ordinary speed of foot is required to get up above twenty-three feet in the broad jump.

BRITAIN TO PAY

WASHINGTON, April 12.—The political disturbances in Great Britain will not interfere with the settlement of the $4,600,000,000 British debt to the United States in the manner already outlined in the agreement reached here, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon declared today.

If a life insurance agent doesn't sell you he worries you to death.

HOT FIGHT OVER INCOME SOURCES

Committee Report to Bring Out Warriors; Unmasking Bill Argument

Special to The Evening News

SACRAMENTO, April 12.—The hottest committee fight of the entire session of the California legislature is scheduled for this afternoon at 4 o'clock when the senate revenue and taxation group meets to give final consideratiton to a report prepared by Chairman H. C. Nelson, relative to possible source of income.

Senator Nelson yesterday submitted his typewritten report to the members of the committee and wanted immediate action. This was blocked for a day by Senators A. Burlingame Johnson, E. J. Gates and Ed Sample. They wanted time to check on Nelson's figures, who is admittedly anti-administration.

Makes Suggestions

Not only did he suggest various ways of getting more money, but he suggested where it might be spent. The handling of more than three million dollars seemed to be an easy matter. As a result it is predicted that minority reports will be submitted the senate on the part of Johnson, also Gates and Sample.

Efforts will be made in the senate to defeat the Badaracco assembly bill providing for unmasking of the Ku Klux Klan. The San Francisco assemblymen disclaimed any intent to injure the order, but said it was simon pure Americanism for them to let the public know who they are.

Once unmasked the Klan will lose its, lure for those secretive geniuses who would like to be judge and jury, as well as the roughnecks craving excitement, it is pointed out by those who supported the measure.

PICK WINNER IN SLOGAN CONTEST

Mrs. Hiltrud McSpadden Is Awarded First Prize for Her Cleverness

The winner in the "Jawbreaker" slogan contest conducted by The Glendale Evening News, in conjunction with local merchants, is Mrs. Hiltrud McSpadden, 216 Arden avenue, who for her cleverness in devising allitterative slogans for the ten ads making up the page in The News of April 3, wins the $12.50 ladies' sweater given by the Fashion Center, one of Glendale's exclusive ready-to-wear stores.

The second prize, a $3.50 kodak, given by Jensen's Drug store, went to F. Booth, 111 South Kenwood street; while the third prize, $2.00 in cash, given by The Glendale Evening News, was won by Alma Johnson, Box 434, Piedmont Park, Glendale.

Winning List

Mrs. McSpadden's slogans showed a dextrous vocabulary and a clever mind. Her winning list follows:

"Crown company cabinets combine comfort, convenience, cleanliness," for the Crown Sash & Door company, 1526 South San Fernando road.

"Pleased people purchase powders, perfumes, promptly prepared prescriptions," for Jensen's Drug store, 133 North Brand boulevard.

"James' jolly jazz just jingles joyful jigs," for the James Phonograph & Record shop, 211-212 East Broadway, the Court Shops.

"Better boost Booth because Booth betters boosters," for Frank Booth, candidate for city councilman, 111 South Kenwood street.

"Broken batteries built better by battery boss," for the Westinghouse Battery service, corner Glendale and Colorado.

"Help her head have heavy, healthy hair," for the Barrett System shop, 221 West Broadway.

"Wires will wear well where we wire," for the M. D. H. Electric company, 1013½ South Brand boulevard.

"Salary savers' service saves salaried savers' salaries," for the People's Finance & Thrift company, 233 South Brand boulevard.

"Fair, fragrant flowers furnished for floral festivals," for the Palace Grand florist, Shop No. 10, Jensen's Palace Grand shops, 133 North Brand boulevard.

"Specially selected seasonal silks sold satisfactorily," for the Irish Linen store, 117 North Brand boulevard.

Others Clever, Too

The slogans of F. Booth and Alma Johnson were also clever but those of Mrs. McSpadden were judged to have the edge on all other entries in the contest.

Many of the entries, though not quite consistent enough to win prizes, contained individual slogans that were exceedingly good. And from the number of entries received, it appears that about half of Glendale contracted "sloganitis" as a result of the contest.

BARNEY GOOGLE ENTERS HARMONY

Local Poets to Get Prizes For Words That Will Be Put to Music

Make the acquaintance of "Barney Google" by writing Google parodies, then when you meet him in person at the Fun Revue, next week Thursday and Friday, April 19 and 20, you will feel like old friends, is the advice passed out from Community Players' headquarters.

Barney Google, with his "goo-goo-google eyes," offers an opportunity for local parody-fans and pun-experts to go the limit in funniment. Witness the following samples, then retire to the poem-room and let the muse have its way:

Barney Google, with his goo-goo-google eyes;
Barney Google is the sorest of guys;
If he mails a letter here,
It will arrive in about a year!
Barney Google, with his goo-goo-google eyes.

Barney Google, with his goo-goo-google eyes;
Barney Google wears the sportiest of ties;
He went to church his girl to wed,
But his color-scheme knocked the lady dead!
Barney Google with his goo-gob-google eyes.

Address your verses to the Contest Editor, The Glendale Evening News. Several fine prizes, already enumerated, are offered by local merchants and will be awarded at one of the performances of the revue, Mayor Spencer Robinson, tendering them to the lucky ones.

Several of the parodies, moreover, will be sung, and yours may be among them. Parodies may also be written to the song, "Mr. Gallagher and Mr. Shean," which has heretofore been printed in The News.

In producing their first musical comedy, the Glendale Community Players are sparing no pains to make it excel even that excellent Arabian production they put on some time back.

The specialties in the Fun Revue are said to be unusually good and the comedy lining up in great shape.

Four Million Loss by Ship Board in Feb.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 12.—Simultaneously with the announcement that President Harding would confer on Saturday with the shipping board to agree on a plan for the disposition of the government's merchant fleet, the statement was made by Chairman Lasker today that a loss of $4,065,381.50 was sustained by the board during the month of February.

This was $876,955 less than the loss in January, but the decrease resulted from the operation of fewer ships.

BIG TRIBUTE FOR POPULAR PASTOR

People of All Faiths Join in Saying Farewell to Father O'Neill

Father O'Neill for seven years, and can say he is a wonderful pastor and friend. It is with regret that we see him go, but we send with him our wishes and prayers for success and happiness," he said.

An entertainment feature of the program was a recitation of "Life," written by George M. Cohan, given by Mrs. A. H. Montgomery. There were also selections by the Jewel quartet, the Kelly orchestra, and Miss Viola Yorba delighted with her singing of "La Paloma" and "La Golondrina."

State Deputy Speaks

Joseph Coyne of Los Angeles, state deputy of the Knights of Columbus, spoke on behalf of that organization, emphasizing the tributes paid to Father O'Neill by previous speakers.

One of the most impressive parts of the program was the presence of Dr. Funk and Rev. Calderwood, fellow ministers.

"Father O'Neill leaves the wonderful memorial of the splendid church, whereby we may all remember him as a great minister of the gospel," this was the message of Rev. Calderwood. Dr. Funk's tribute was equally as impressive.

Mayor Spencer Robinson was introduced as a "pal" of Father O'Neill and he said:

"Sixteen years ago there came to Glendale a young man, whose mission in life was to do good. We've been mighty proud of Father O'Neill and the little red church he started. He has been a loyal citizen, sharing in the growth and development of the city and we shall miss him."

To Greater Things

Mr. Degnan in his address emphasized that Father O'Neill's departure was a promotion to greater things and that the pledge of the Holy Family parishioners to him should be to "carry on."

Near the close of the program Father O'Neill was called out to supposedly answer an urgent phone call and during his absence an offering was made by those present and upon his return he was greeted with prolonged applause and presented with a leather bag containing the gift.

Upon his response to the introduction by Mr. McGroarty, the beloved priest was greatly touched with the honors paid him and voiced his farewell in the simple words, "Aloha Oe" ("Till We Meet Again."

The final event was the singing of "Auld Lang Syne" by the company, led by Mayor Robinson.

Lend Assistance

F. P. Dunn served as chairman of the committee arranging the affair, and was assisted by William Smith, W. B. Kelly, Frank McDonald, George McLaughlin, J. F. Zimmer, A. M. Yale, William Eckols, Thomas Ratigan, James Mullen, J. Hartman, M. J. Curran and Leo McMahon.

Serving at the banquet was a group of Y. L. I. members, including Mary Margaret Chapman, Helen and Dorothy Goder, Dorothy Young, Julia Salmacia, Ageline Smith, Henrietta Meck, Bertha Fangman, Mary Elizabeth O'Connell, Zelda Cross, Mrs. Frank Clark, Lillian Owens, Ruth Toomey, Margaret Smith and Irene Morgan.
